SALUTE OF BOMBS GREETED DE VALERA ON ARRIVAL IN CITY TO AID IRISH CAUSE

"President" Receives Hearty Welcome at McKinley Station, Where Supporters Display Colors of "Republic"—Visitor Heads Automobile Procession Through Streets.

ADDRESSES TOWN AND CITY CLUBS

Independence Leader Declares England Holds Ireland by Might Alone to Maintain Commercial Supremacy of Empire.

Eamon de Valera, president of Sinn Féin, and known as "President of the Irish Republic," is in St. Louis today, by invitation of the Board of Aldermen. His announced purpose is to present the Irish cause, with a view to recognition of Ireland's independence by the United States, and to stimulate interest in a $10,000,000 loan which it is proposed to float. He will speak at a mass meeting in the Coliseum tonight.

"The Chief," as he is called by his closest associates, was greeted with a salute of 21 bombs when he appeared at 8:45 a. m. at the McKinley station, Twelfth street and Lucas avenue. The official salute to the President of the United States is 21 guns or bombs. The bombs were fired not only in the vicinity of the station, but at King's highway and Delmar boulevard, and at Taylor and Margaretta avenues.

The special electric sleeping car carrying the Irish party arrived from Springfield, Ill., at 8:45 a. m., but De Valera was not awakened until after 8. When he appeared a good sized gathering was about the station. Men and women carried the flag of the Irish independence movement, which is a tricolor of green, white and orange. These flags, in some cases, were home-made, and there was some difference in shades of color. Some men wore green ribbons, or badges of past St. Patrick's day celebrations.

Talks With Reporters. With De Valera were his secretary, Sean (John) Nunn; the Rev. James Gratian, archbishop of Norfolk, a Protestant Episcopal clergyman, and Charles Sweeney, a Philadelphia newspaper correspondent. The Rev. Father Peter J. O'Rourke, president of the Friends of Irish Freedom, Dr. J. Emmet Kane, chairman of the local reception committee; Michael Cullinane and Arthur J. Donnelly came from Springfield with the visitors.

"The chief" was escorted to Hotel Jefferson for breakfast, riding in an automobile decorated lavishly with the American and Irish colors and with flowers, chiefly chrysanthemums. After breakfast he talked with reporters, giving out a prepared interview, the substance of which appears elsewhere.

Appears Embarrassed. De Valera is 37 years old, but his deeply lined face makes him appear to be forty at least. He is 6 feet tall, spare and slightly bowed. His face is of scholarly cast, with large eyes, well separated, and long nose, on which he wears tortoise-shell glasses. His hair is dark brown and roughly combed. He wears business clothes, and his attitude in the face of applause with which he was met at the station was modest to the point of embarrassment. As has been told frequently, he is the son of a Spanish father and an Irish mother, and was born in New York, but taken to Ireland by his mother in his early childhood, followed his father's death.

Drive Through City Begins. The scheduled drive of the party through the central district, the West End and South St. Louis began at 10:25. Five automobiles followed that in which De Valera rode. The Locust-Lindell route was followed to Forest Park, and the drive was then to Washington University, back through the park over Art Hill to St. John's Hospital on Euclid avenue, then to Tower Grove Park and Lafayette Park, thence downtown through the business district to the Park Club, where he addressed several hundred men.

Students, nurses and children from nearby parish schools assembled outside St. John's hospital. In fact, wherever a parish school was near the route of the drive, the children were carrying American flags and many Irish flags and cheered enthusiastically. De Valera was presented with a bouquet of Killarney roses at the hospital.

LABOR CONFERENCE TO CONSIDER INDUSTRIAL DISPUTES CALLED

Officials of the International Unions Will Meet in Washington Soon.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—A conference of officials of international unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor will be held in Washington soon to consider industrial disputes now in progress and impending.

This was disclosed today in the following telegram sent by Samuel Gompers, president of the federation, to the Illinois State Federation of Labor, in session at Peoria: "Executive council, American Federation of Labor, before its adjournment Tuesday evening, adopted a declaration calling for conference to be held in Washington at an early date to deal with several of the subjects contained in your message."

The Illinois federation had asked that a special convention of the American federation be held here for the purpose of perfecting an alliance of the international unions of the United States and Canada "more effectively to fight out the life-and-death struggles of the workers."

The date for the conference has not yet been determined.

CROWDER SAYS HE WILL ADVISE MILITARY JUSTICE CODE CHANGES

Army Judge Advocate General Appears Before Senate Committee to Answer Ansell.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Appearing before the Senate Military Committee today to answer charges and criticisms made by Senator T. Ansell, former Acting Judge Advocate General, and Senator Chamberlain, Major-General Enoch H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General of the army, declared that there had been a "total" denial of the charges of the military law of the army until the real issue has been secured.

Gen. Crowder said he recognized the necessity for a revision of the present military justice code and announced that he would recommend certain amendments later.

Gen. Crowder told of the reforms accomplished by the Government in the Federal military prisons in 1912, and said that the whole plan of prison reform was recommended by the War Department to Congress before Mr. Ansell reported for duty in Washington, Oct. 12, 1912.

From 1914 to 1918, inclusive, he said, 2902 men from the disciplinary barracks re-enlisted. Between April 6, 1917, and Aug. 31, 1919, he said, the average sentence actually served by 344 men restored to the colors was 481 days, or 14 months, against an average sentence of 5.73 years. Gen. Crowder justified heavy sentences in cases of absence without leave as necessary to maintain discipline. There were 14,098 cases of absence in 1918, he said, and it was to stop this practice that heavy sentences were imposed.

ASKS HOUSE 'WHEN AND WHERE PERSHING WAS AT FRONT'

Congressman Sherwood Declares Commanders Should Be Constantly in the Line of Armies.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Declaring that in all wars Commanding Generals should be constantly at the front, Representative Sherwood, Democrat, Ohio, who was a Brigadier-General in the Civil War, asked the House Military Committee to report "when and where Gen. Pershing was at the front during any of the great conflicts of the past war."

In 1918, he said, he was killed in the Civil War, Sherwood told the House that soldiers returning from France had informed him "they never saw or heard of Gen. Pershing at the front."

'GO TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY'

Mayor Kiel and Gov. Gardner Issue Proclamations.

A proclamation has been issued by Mayor Kiel urging St. Louisans to observe "Go to Church Sunday" next Sunday. Gov. Gardner has issued a similar proclamation urging all Missourians to attend the churches of their choice on that day and encouraging worship, God and encouraging by their presence, the teaching of religion, morality and patriotism.

The day will also be observed by Protestant churches as "Go to Church Sunday." Missouri's attendance quota is 750,000. Union M. E. Sunday school, Delmar and Grand avenues, set as its attendance goal 600. Herman Bowman, secretary of the Missouri State Sunday School Association, will address the school. Special music and an attractive program has been arranged.

WILSON APPEALED TO IN EFFORT TO AVERT COAL STRIKE

Labor Secretary Will Go Before President Following Rejection of Two New Proposals by Him.

WILL SEE BOTH SIDES AGAIN LATE TODAY

Plan for New Conference and for 15-Cent Increase to Workers Turned Down at Meeting.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Final appeal was made direct to President Wilson today to prevent the strike of 500,000 soft coal miners, called for Nov. 1, after miners and operators, meeting jointly with Secretary Wilson, had turned down two proposals to negotiate a new wage agreement, the first one being for a concession of interest in the coal fields, and the second a proposal of a straight 15-cent a ton increase for pick mining.

While on the point of breaking up, the two groups, hearing the plea of Secretary Wilson, agreed to return at 4 o'clock this afternoon to receive a message the Secretary hoped to bring from the President.

Coming out of the meeting, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, said: "The outlook is less hopeful than last night. We are returning to hear what the President and Secretary might say, but there seems little chance of reaching an agreement."

"The miners and operators still occupy the same position as last night," Secretary Wilson said. "I made a suggestion as a new basis of settlement, which was rejected. The miners refused to accept, and the operators saying that, while it was not satisfactory, they were willing to consider it."

Secretary's Wage Proposal. Wilson outlined the terms of his proposition, as follows: "That the pick mining prices be advanced 15 cents per ton. That machine mining, yardage, deadweight and day wages be advanced in the same ratio. That the day work shall be eight hours from bank to bank. That there shall be a Saturday half holiday. That with these changes the existing agreement continues in effect until March 31, 1920. That while the legal termination of the war will not take place until some unknown time in the future, the increase in the cost of living is an existing fact, and therefore changes will go into effect as of Nov. 1, 1919."

Mr. Wilson hurried away to consult other officials before proceeding to the White House. Some members of the miners' group said the "blow-up" had about come and that they expected to start home tonight.

Held by Slender Thread. It was near the end of a long and heated session at yesterday, at which the miners rejected one plan of settlement and refused to arbitrate wages, that the Secretary, taking hold of a slender thread, brought the two sides together and kept them here for another conference today.

"The miners rejected and the operators first proposal for settlement of their troubles," Secretary Wilson said last night. "They now have before them for consideration a proposition submitted by me that they go into conference with each other, without reservation, as if no demands had been made, or refused, having in mind the interests of their respective groups."

"The miners are willing to do that, and the operators are willing, provided the strike order is withdrawn." Mr. Wilson suggested, formally at least, that all the questions in dispute be submitted to arbitration, but both sides rejected it so quickly that it looked as if they had reached the real end of attempts to bring about peace.

All the time, however, Mr. Wilson was breaking into the discussion with pleas for the people, for some thought of their rights, with a grim word picture of what would come if the shutting down of mining and half the country short of coal. Then he laid his new proposal before the conference, urging miners and operators to sleep over it and to return tomorrow with decision and willingness to give and take.

New York Retains Daylight Saving. NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Mayor Hylan today announced his official approval of a new ordinance providing that city clocks be turned ahead one hour at 2 a. m. on the last Sunday in April and turned back on the last Sunday in September. "This will save the people of the city from paying such large gas and electric light bills," the Mayor said.

Are you going to the theater or movies tonight? If so, see Page 31.

WILSON CONTINUES SLOWLY TO GAIN, PHYSICIANS SAY

Prohibition Bill With Opinion by Palmer Is Now Before the President.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—President Wilson continues slowly to gain strength, said a bulletin issued today by his physicians. The bulletin follows: "The President continues slowly to gain in strength. There is nothing additional to report this morning. President Wilson had before him today the prohibition enforcement bill, recently passed by Congress, with an opinion by Attorney-General Palmer as to the measure's constitutionality. It was considered doubtful, however, by White House officials whether the President would be permitted by Rear Admiral Grayson, his personal physician, to consider the bill and the opinion today. Dr. Grayson, after the President sent a message yesterday to the national industrial conference, ordered that no further governmental affairs be brought to Mr. Wilson's attention during the day. The President has until Tuesday midnight to act on the measure. Despite the President's activity yesterday and the day previous, Dr. Grayson was able to announce last night that 'the President is satisfactorily maintaining the improvement which he has recently made.'"

LABOR BUREAU PLACES BUDGET FOR FAMILY OF FIVE AT $2262

Federal Salary Investigations Fix $1083 for Annual Expenses of Single Woman, $1000 for Man.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Official estimates for a "health and decency" budget for Government clerks place the minimum annual expenses of a family of five at $2262; an unmarried woman at $1083, and a single man at $1000.

These figures were made public today by Dr. Royal Meeker, chief of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, in connection with the investigation of Federal salaries by a congressional committee.

The food item in the family budget amounts to $773.33. The clothing bill for the year is put at $513.72, of which the husband is allotted $121.16; the wife, $166.46; 11-year-old boy, $96.60; the 5-year-old girl, $82.50; and the baby (2 years), $47. Housing, fuel and light are placed at $428 and miscellaneous expenses at $548.82, a total of $2262.47.

If the wife was especially competent in the art of shopping, did her own sewing and practiced all household economies, the budget might be reduced, it was explained to a "rock bottom minimum" of $2025.56.

The bureau, in compiling these estimates, makes a hat allowance for the wife of one and a half hats a year, $10 for a winter hat and $5 for summer one, the winter hat to be worn two years. An item of $8.40 is allowed for a newspaper, held by Dr. Meeker to be necessary. The family amusement appropriation is set at $40, which also includes magazines, though in general, such luxuries as the latter, it was pointed out, are to be enjoyed at the public library.

Gronna Opposes Covenant. The peace treaty was assailed today by Senator Gronna as a violation of President Wilson's 14 points and an arrangement likely to involve the United States in many wars. The league of nations he characterized as an "unholy alliance" which would make this country "the pack horse for the Governments of Europe, Asia and Africa."

Recalling that he was one of six Senators who voted against the declaration of war with Germany, he said: "No one was permitted to discuss it. The freedom of speech was not only limited but prohibited, and unless you were in a position and willing to say 'so sayeth the King,' you were denounced as pro-German and a traitor. Even before the war was declared it was treason to express an honest opinion. I felt that sufficient information was not given by the administration to warrant this sudden change."

"I will remember how some of you who are now clamoring for this covenant which you say will give an immediate peace, were then acting like demons of war."

Gronna went on to pay a tribute to the loyalty of citizens of foreign blood, although he said many had believed that "we should either have entered the war at an earlier time or else stayed out altogether." He said he wanted to remind "character assassins" that success of the war was not to be attributed to those who spoke longest and loudest. He added that foreign elements who "advocate destruction of Government" or refuse to obey the law should be returned to their mother countries.

More Reservations. Four more reservations were approved by the Foreign Relations Committee yesterday as part of its new program for qualified acceptance of the peace treaty, its action bringing the number of reservations approved by the committee up to 14. It is considered likely there will be additions as consideration of the treaty proceeds.

The four accepted by the committee majority provide for decision by Congress as to who shall represent this country in the league of nations and as to what other international representatives shall be chosen under the treaty; for validation of proceedings relative to enemy property of their demands.

ROADS TO ASK RATE INCREASE. Begin Collection of Data When Hines Will Talk No Part.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Railroad corporations have started the collection of data for presentation to the Interstate Commerce Commission in advocacy of increased transportation rates. After Director-General Hines declined in a conference yesterday to take an active part in the negotiations for increased rates, the railroad corporations decided to act independently and started immediately the accumulation of material to convince the commission of the reasonableness of their demands.

COMMITTEE'S 14 RESERVATIONS ARE GIVEN TO SENATE

Qualifications to League Covenant Provisions Go Over Until Amendments Are Out of Way.

VOTE IS NEAR ON JOHNSON AMENDMENT

Reed and Spencer on Program for Addresses in Senate Today; Still More Reservations Likely.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The amendment to the league of nations covenant of the peace treaty by Senator Johnson, Republican, California, dealing with the voting strength in the council and assembly, is before the Senate again today. Although it is hardly considered probable a vote can be reached there are indications an effort will be made to bring the amendment to a roll call before adjournment.

Four Senators have announced they would deliver speeches on the treaty today—Senators Gronna, North Dakota; La Follette, Wisconsin; Reed, Missouri, and Spencer, Missouri.

The Foreign Relations Committee reservations continue to be the subject of discussion. Indications are that the reservations to the treaty will cause a long fight on the Senate floor with both forces splitting from time to time on the various reservations. Neither the Republican nor the Democratic leader seems to have absolute control of his following and both forces are laboring to strengthen their ranks for the final vote.

Presented to Senate. Chairman Lodge of the Foreign Relations Committee, presented in the Senate today the revised list of 14 reservations agreed to by the committee. They went over to await disposition of amendments. A blanket reservation, the phraseology of which was left to Lodge by the committee, reads as follows: "The United States reserves to itself exclusively the right to decide what questions affect its honor or its vital interests, and declares that such questions are not under this treaty to be submitted in any way either to arbitration or to the consideration of the council or of the assembly of the league of nations or any agency thereof or to the decision or recommendation of any other Power."

The peace treaty was assailed today by Senator Gronna as a violation of President Wilson's 14 points and an arrangement likely to involve the United States in many wars. The league of nations he characterized as an "unholy alliance" which would make this country "the pack horse for the Governments of Europe, Asia and Africa."

TOO MUCH WAITING IN GERMANY

BERLIN, Sept. 30.—Lieutenant-General Albrecht, formerly commander of the border defense troops in the northeast, advised the officers of his command on the occasion of his demobilization, to go to work in the mines or on the farms.

"Everything in Germany," he declared, "is waiting for the celebrated great man who can help. Better not wait for him, gentlemen."

CARDINAL MERCIER, OF BELGIUM, COMES TO ST. LOUIS FOR TWO DAYS' VISIT

Several Persons Drop to Knees and Kiss His Ring as He Steps From Train at Union Station—Is Welcomed by Archbishop Glennon and Mayor Kiel.

STRIKING FIGURE IN CHURCH GARB

Heroic Primate Says Conditions in Belgium Still Are Unsettled and Suggests Formation of Committee for Relief Here.

Cardinal Mercier, Primate of Belgium, arrived from Moline, Ill., at 7:49 a. m. today for a two days' stay in St. Louis. He was met at Union Station by committees appointed by Archbishop Glennon and the Chamber of Commerce. On behalf of the Church he was greeted by Archbishop Glennon, and on behalf of the municipality he was welcomed by Mayor Kiel.

After saying mass privately and having breakfast at Archbishop Glennon's residence, 3810 Lindell boulevard, Cardinal Mercier told a Post-Dispatch reporter he had heard St. Louis was a great city with a special sympathy for Belgium and that his reception on his arrival had convinced him this was true.

"My speech here," he said, "I shall talk about Belgium, of course. I shall speak without manuscript, because I have found the American people like off-hand speaking. My English is limited and I hope my hearers will be indulgent."

Conditions in Belgium. "In Belgium just now conditions are very unsettled and troublesome, religiously, socially and politically. While here I shall discuss with your Archbishop a plan for forming a Belgian Relief Commission, such as has been formed in New York, Baltimore and Washington. Belgium is still in sore straits financially. She fully appreciates what America has done for her in the past."

As the Cardinal stepped from the train several persons, including John Scullin and Alderman Luke Hart, dropped to their knees and kissed his ring. Others in the welcoming party shook his hand and to each of these he said "I am glad to meet you."

The Cardinal was a striking figure in his robes of office. He wore a long black robe with red buttons and bound with a red sash. Over this was a red brocade silk cape.

American Flag in Lapel. His broad flat hat was of black beaver with a cord of gold and red. When he removed this in salutation to the crowd it was seen that under the hat he wore the red skull cap which is a Cardinal's most distinctive badge of office. The churchly character of his raiment was relieved by only one secular touch. In the left lapel of his robe was a small silk American flag.

Cardinal Mercier, although 63 years old, has the ruddy complexion of a boy and is very strong and kindly. His gray hair and a slight stoop are the only outward indications of age.

The Cardinal was escorted to the Twentieth street exit through the midway, which had its usual morning crowd, reinforced by many who had come to see the distinguished churchman. There was no cheering, but the doffing of hats as the Cardinal passed was general.

Poses for Photographs. At the exit he posed for newspaper photographers and insisted that Mayor Kiel get into the pictures. Accompanied by the two committee leaders, the Cardinal was driven to Archbishop Glennon's residence, where he was to remain until 11:30, when he was escorted to the Statler Hotel for a luncheon given in his honor by the Chamber of Commerce.

The route from the Archbishop's residence to the Statler was by way of Lindell boulevard, Locust street, Twentieth street and Washington avenue. Sidewalk crowds cheered as the churchman and his party went by. There were gatherings of parochial school children at Grand avenue and at Jefferson avenue.

At the hotel the ballroom was filled with diners. The Cardinal was seated in the same throne-like chair which had been used earlier in the week by the King of the Belgians. At his right sat Archbishop Glennon. The invocation was delivered by the Rev. J. W. Macvey, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church. As Friday is a Catholic fast-day no meat was served. There

A special floral decoration on the Cardinal's table.

Bishop A. de Wachter of Malines, Belgium, who was a member of the Cardinal's party, was made the guest of honor at the reception, which was held at the St. Louis archdiocese, and escorted to the Old Cathedral, Second and Walnut streets.

The Chamber of Commerce Reception Committee was as follows: Mayor Henry W. Kiel, honorary chairman; James E. Smith, chairman; E. C. Andrews, Edward Buder, Paul V. Bunn, H. D. Condie, F. R. Cramer, Harry C. Crutcher, H. J. Gray, R. S. Hawes, Edward S. Lewis, John G. Lonsdale, Gus V. R. Mechin, Charles Parson Pettus, Marc Seguin, Arthur Sherwood.

On the Reception Committee appointed by Archbishop Glennon were: Festus J. Wade, chairman; Paul Bakewell, Eugene Benoit, Howard Benoit, W. B. Cowen, James M. Francis, James W. Garneau, Luke E. Hart, J. J. Leiby, John Leiby, Ray R. O'Connell, D. C. Nugent, Philip S. Scanlan, John Scullin.

Following the Chamber of Commerce luncheon this afternoon, Cardinal Mercier is to go to St. Louis University, where a public reception will be held in the law school auditorium, on Lindell boulevard west of Grand avenue. At this function the degree of Doctor of Divinity will be conferred upon the Cardinal by the University, Father B. J. Otting. The reception will be from 3 to 4:30 p. m.

Silver Trumpets to Sound.

At a public peace celebration in the New Cathedral, beginning at 7:30 tonight, the Cardinal will be welcomed with a blast of silver trumpets, and will respond to an address of welcome by the Archbishop. A hymn of peace, and the benediction of the blessed sacrament, will follow. "The Star-Spangled Banner" will be played as a finale.

Cardinal Mercier will preside at a solemn mass in the New Cathedral at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, in memory of the St. Louis dead in the war. A eulogy will be delivered, and "Taps" will be sounded. Officers and soldiers in uniform, and military chaplains, have been invited to occupy reserved seats.

In connection with the military mass it was announced that one ticket for the middle aisle seat will be given to one representative of each family of which a member died in war service. Tickets must be applied for this afternoon at the Cathedral parish residence.

The Cardinal was scheduled to appear at a reception at Sacred Heart Academy, Taylor and Maryland avenues, at 10:15 tomorrow morning. Pupils at the Academy and the Cathedral school will be invited to the academy lawn. He will be taken to Kenrick Seminary, in St. Louis County, for luncheon, and will return in time to attend a meeting of the Belgian Benevolent Society at 5 p. m. in Knights of Columbus Hall, 3549 Olive street.

The final event in his honor will be a dinner at Hotel Jefferson, to be given promptly at 8:30 p. m. tomorrow. Tickets for this dinner are on sale to the general public at the Mercantile Trust Co. A special request for prompt attendance of guests has been made, as the Cardinal is to depart for Cincinnati at 10 p. m.

RESERVATIONS ARE APPROVED BY LODGE COMMITTEE

As far as such proceedings do not violate the laws of the United States, for renunciation by this Government of any part in the German colonies, and for a blanket provision to conserve the "national honor and vital interests" of this nation.

One of the subjects on which reservations still are to be drafted is the equality of voting power in the league, action being delayed until the Senate has acted on the two pending committee amendments dealing with voting strength in the council and assembly. One of these is by Senator Johnson.

Not all of the reservations adopted in committee yesterday had the solid support of the reservation forces, but the Republican leaders declared a majority of the Senate had been pledged to them. Senator McCumber, Republican, North Dakota, who stood with the other Republicans in favor of all the 10 approved yesterday, voted in the negative on the one relating to congressional choice of American representatives in the league and that concerning the German colonies. Senator Shields, Democrat, Tennessee, stood with the Republican majority throughout.

Only three of the four reservations adopted yesterday were put into exact form. The three follow: The Congress of the United States, hereafter, will provide for the appointment of the representatives of the United States in the assembly and the council of the league of nations, and may in its discretion provide for the participation of the United States in any commission, committee, tribunal, court, council or conference, under the treaty of peace, or in carrying out its provisions, and until such participation and appointment have been so provided for, and the powers and duties of such representatives so defined, no person shall represent the United States under the said league of nations, or the treaty or be authorized to perform any act for or on behalf of the United States thereunder, and no citizen of the United States shall be appointed or appointed as a member of commissions, committees, courts, councils or conferences except with the approval of the Congress of the United States.

Nothing in Articles 226, 227, or in any of the annex thereto, or in any other articles, section or annex of the treaty of peace with Germany shall, as against citizens of the United States, be taken to mean any limitation, restriction or approval of any act otherwise legal or in contravention of the rights of citizens of the United States.

LENOIR, THIRD OF FRENCH DEFEATISTS, EXECUTED IN PARIS

Prisoner, Paralyzed in Both Legs, Has to Be Carried to Place of Execution.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—Pierre Lenoir, convicted on a charge of having held intelligence with the enemy, was executed in Sante Prison at 7 o'clock this morning.

Lenoir was very ill and unable to leave his bed in the prison yesterday. He suffered from paralysis of both legs.

Lenoir's attorney, M. Molene, asked early today that the prisoner be examined mentally and physically.

"It is an impossible thing to execute a sick man," the attorney said. The officials, however, decided to proceed with the execution.

Lenoir was able to sign the register of the prison, but was unable to take a step. The guards carried him out, his attorney crying.

Lenoir was to carry a man in this way to his execution.

Pierre Lenoir was the third person to be executed on charges arising out of attempts made by German agents to carry out a "defeatist" campaign in France in 1915 and 1916. The others who met death as a result of revelations made against them were Bolo Pasha, executed April 17, 1918, and Duval, who faced the firing squad July 17, 1918. Both were directors of the Germanophile newspaper, Bonnet Rouge.

Lenoir, who as a young man had led an idle and dissolute life, came into public notice early in 1918 when the arrest of Senator Humbert, owner of the Paris Journal, was followed by charges against several men who were alleged to have acted as agents of the Germans in buying the newspaper from M. Humbert. It was shown early in the investigation that Lenoir had paid M. Humbert large sums of money which he had received from the German government.

Lenoir was doctored to death on May 8, 1919. On Sept. 19, last, when the firing squad was in position, his life was spared for a time in a most dramatic manner. His attorney asserted that Lenoir could give evidence wanted in the case of Joseph Caillaux, who was yesterday brought before the high court of the French Senate on a charge of "conspiring to bring about a premature and dishonorable peace with Germany." Lenoir was given a searching examination by judicial authorities but it would not justify a mitigation of the sentence.

EXECUTOR OF ESTATE INDICTED ON EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGE

Surety Company Institutes Action Because of Alleged Nonpayment of Bond of Final Settlement.

An indictment charging embezzlement by executor has been voted against John B. Ehrhart of 5837 Enright avenue, a real estate dealer, executor of the estate of Margaret Egan, who died in 1910. Ehrhart was arrested on a bench warrant yesterday and appeared before Judge Garesche, giving a bond of $2000 to answer the charge.

Assistant Circuit Attorney Feehan said the case hinges on notice of a final settlement as executor in which Ehrhart gave $375 as the final sum to be paid to the beneficiaries of the estate. The beneficiaries filed objections to this settlement in the Circuit Court, demurring to certain credits Ehrhart was alleged to have made to himself.

The case was taken to the Court of Appeals, which sustained the beneficiaries and designated $692 as the sum of the final settlement. This was not paid, Feehan said. The American Surety Co., which was Ehrhart's bond, paid the sum and instituted the action before the grand jury.

cept an interest as trustee or in her own right, or any responsibility for the government or disposition of the overseas possessions of Germany to which Germany renounces her rights and titles to the principal allied and associated Powers under Article 119 to 127, inclusive.

The fourth reservation was authorized on motion of Senator Shields, Democrat, Tennessee, who said the suggestion had been made to him by Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, who is not a member of the committee. By a vote of 10 to 5, with Senators McCumber and Smith, Democrat, Arizona, absent, the committee instructed its chairman to draft a reservation to conserve the national honor and vital interests of the United States in language similar to that used in the Root treaties.

By a vote of 11 to 6 the committee rejected an amendment proposed by Senator Jones, Republican, Washington, giving notice that the United States would withdraw from the league at the end of two years unless the league members had abandoned the policy of peace time conscription and a satisfactory settlement had been made in regard to Shantung, Ireland and Egypt. The reservation was taken up on motion of Senator Fall, Republican, New Mexico, and the others voting for it were Senators Borah, Idaho; Knox, Pennsylvania; Johnson, California; New, Indiana; and Moses, New Hampshire, all Republicans.

It also was decided to incorporate in the reservation adopted the day before regarding national jurisdiction over domestic questions, a provision retaining national supervision over the suppression of the traffic in women and children and in opium and other dangerous drugs.

During the day in the Senate a plea was made by Johnson for his voting equalization amendment, and it was opposed by Senators Lenoir, Wisconsin; Colt, Rhode Island; Edge, New Jersey, and McCumber, North Dakota, all Republicans.

DEMOCRATS HOPE PEOPLE WILL TIRE OF TREATY DELAY

Hitchcock Declares the Republican Ranks Will Be Broken and Strong Reservations Beaten.

By the Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The fact cannot be blinked that the unfriendly attitude of the administration on the subject of reservations has driven the "middle ground" Republicans into the arms of the extreme Democrats. Through the belief that the word of some of them might be altered, he declared they would be in no way softened. The ultimate outcome of the treaty, he said, would be the adoption of a strong set of "American safeguarding" reservations.

Spencer said he "saw no objection" to the proposed preamble, but he said the "middle ground" Republicans before the United States shall be bound by the treaty. He expected to vote for the preamble as well as the reservations.

Spencer's stand in favor of the Johnson amendment is in accord with the instructions given him in resolutions recently adopted by the Republican State Committee of Missouri. He was specifically directed to support this amendment.

Previously, Spencer had declared his opposition to amendments designed to send the treaty back to the Peace Conference. It is generally agreed that the Johnson amendment is one of that class.

Reasons was assembled about the statue of George Washington in Lafayette Park, many of them being parish school children. One child exclaimed: "Where is the Queen?" It had been arranged for De Valera to place a wreath on the statue. He was doing so when the explosion occurred. The explosion was on a card and placed it on the wreath. "A tribute to the memory of one who was treacherous to his country," he said.

Says Ireland Is Held by Might.

In his speech there, De Valera declared that the Irish question no longer was the Irish question, but a world question—the first test of whether the principle of self-determination shall live or the world shall go back to the old theory that might is right in international law. He declared that Ireland was held by England by might alone. He refused to declare that it was wrong to refer to the Irish question as a question among Irishmen. He declared it to be a question of Ireland as a nation and England as a nation.

McNary's Explanation.

The chances of a McNary-Hitchcock agreement looked excellent, but it never materialized. Now the "middle ground" group is lined up with the Lodge Republicans demanding a set of reservations of which are tantamount to amendments.

Senator McNary of Oregon of the hitherto mild Republican element put the case succinctly when he said: "The proponents of the treaty among the Democrats missed a great opportunity. The Ireland she wants to retain her ports for a continuance of English commercial domination of the seas. He declared that England's plea for Ireland as a security was adopted by the league of nations, and that Ireland was free from aggression from the Atlantic with Ireland a free, inviolable nation.

Equal Suffrage Cited.

De Valera referred to the fact that the Irish granted equality with man to her women and declared that she did so because the love of liberty was stronger in women's hearts than in men's.

De Valera spoke at the City Club at noon and at 3 p. m. at the Exposition of Industrial Arts and Crafts. At 4 p. m. he was to visit the mayor at the City Hall to receive the welcome of the Board of Aldermen, who extended an invitation for him to visit St. Louis soon after his arrival in the United States.

Dinner at Private Club.

At 6 o'clock a private dinner will be given to him at the University Club, Grand and Washington avenues.

At 8 he will be the principal speaker at a mass meeting at the Coliseum. The doors of the Coliseum will be open at 7, and an American and Irish concert will begin at 7:30.

De Valera will be escorted to the platform by Mayor Kiel, and will be introduced by the chairman of the evening, Judge O'Neill Ryan, after Dr. Emmett Kane, temporary chairman, opens the meeting. Other speakers will be Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the American Commission on Irish Independence, and two Protestant clergymen, the Rev. Lindsay Crawford of Toronto and the Rev. James G. Mythen.

De Valera will remain at Hotel Jefferson tonight, and will depart for Kansas City tomorrow morning.

Governor Sends Message.

Gov. Gardner, in reply to an invitation to attend the Coliseum demonstration, wrote to Dr. Kane, saying that the pressure of public business at Jefferson City was such that he could not leave. He commented on the large number of those of Irish birth and descent in this country, and the positions of leadership attained by many of them.

"Many thousands of Americans are deeply interested in the welfare of the Irish. When I express the hope that the inhabitants of Ireland may succeed in so adjusting their governmental affairs as to bring them a full measure of peace, prosperity and happiness, I do but voice the sentiment of all our people."

COMMITTEE VOTES FOR DISSOLUTION OF PUBLIC GROUP

Rockefeller and Associates Recommend Adjournment of Remaining Element of Conference Tonight.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Immediate dissolution of the public group—the remaining element of the National Industrial Conference—is proposed in a recommendation of the committee of five, which will be made to the group this afternoon. Should the recommendation be adopted the conference would end tonight.

The committee also framed a tentative report for submission to President Wilson outlining the work of the conference up to the time the representatives of organized labor withdrew.

The action of the committee was in line with a suggestion of its chairman, John D. Rockefeller Jr., who thought a commission should be created to deal with industrial problems generally. Whether the recommendation was not made known.

Mr. Rockefeller's position was that the public delegates having participated in the full conference would be handicapped by unfavorable public opinion and that an entirely new body should be created. Officials of the American Federation of Labor have been approached as to their attitude toward the proposal that the public group go ahead with the conference work and they were understood to have promised co-operation.

Employers' Statement.

The employers' group said in a statement before dissolving yesterday:

"The employers' group, soberly reviewing the work of the conference, discovers three definite gains:

"1. It has been demonstrated that failure is inevitable where preliminary organization of the elements composing such a conference is absent and where no preparation is made for the orderly presentation of a program which shall include all of the known factors upon which industrial relations are based.

"2. Collective bargaining, an accepted and desirable policy in industry, has been brought more prominently before the country and will influence a sincere effort on the part of innumerable manufacturers to find an acceptable medium through which this collective relationship may be secured and maintained in the industrial establishment."

"3. Collective bargaining as a policy or principle cannot be safely used in the broad and general sense with which the public has been accustomed to view it, but it has been defined clearly as to its applicability to the varying conditions of industry and the varying relations that exist between wage earner and the employer."

"Fundamental to the whole question of collective bargaining is the responsibility of those who bargain, and this is directed quite as much at the employers as at the wage earner."

RESOLUTIONS SHOWING ATTITUDE ON BARGAINING OF CAPITAL AND LABOR

FOLLOWING IS THE DECLARATION by capital presented to the Industrial Conference, Oct. 17, outlining the "utmost" concessions of that group on collective bargaining, which was rejected by the conference along with all other plans Tuesday:

"Resolved, That, without in any way limiting the right of a wage earner to refrain from joining any association, or to deal directly with his employer as he chooses, the right of wage earners in private, as distinguished from Government, employment to organize in trade and labor unions, in shop industrial councils, or other lawful form of association, to bargain collectively, to be represented by representatives of their own choosing in negotiations and adjustments, with employers in respect to wages, hours of labor, and other conditions of employment is recognized; and the right of the employer to deal or not to deal, with men or groups of men who are not his employees and chosen by him and from among them is recognized; no denial is intended of the right of an employer and his workers voluntarily to agree upon the form of their representative relations."

"The purpose of the resolution through cunning phrases coined to carry double meaning was to commit the conference to support the only brand of collective bargaining ever offered by the group presenting it, and the employers were bound to resist to the end."

"The employers' group could not deny the right that it so freely and fully conceded in its own substitute resolution which the conference defeated, and it stands today with the adjournment of the conference upon the record of its substitute and its interpretation, confident that the sober judgment of the American people will come to understand that the position taken was in the defense of the open shop, an American institution that shall not be undermined and destroyed by any organized combination seeking to threaten its life. Our social and industrial fabric is not in danger. Employer and wage earner will live and work together, but the right of the employer to deny representation unworthily sought shall not be abridged; nor shall the right of the wage earner collectively to place before his own employer his needs and his aspirations and his interests in the establishment be abridged."

prominently before the country and will influence a sincere effort on the part of innumerable manufacturers to find an acceptable medium through which this collective relationship may be secured and maintained in the industrial establishment."

"3. Collective bargaining as a policy or principle cannot be safely used in the broad and general sense with which the public has been accustomed to view it, but it has been defined clearly as to its applicability to the varying conditions of industry and the varying relations that exist between wage earner and the employer."

WITHERS APPROVES POSITION OF BOARD HEAD ON TAX

Best Interest of Children Will Have First Consideration in Expansion, He Says.

John W. Withers, Superintendent of Instruction of the Board of Education, has issued a statement declaring himself in full accord with the position of President McDonald, on the board in endorsing the campaign for an increased school tax. The increase, 15 cents a $100, effective for one year, beginning in January, 1921, will be voted on at a special election Nov. 11.

Education is the primary object of the board, says Withers. "The one question that must always be answered is how under existing conditions the money available for school purposes can be so spent as to obtain the greatest benefit to the children."

"The question of teachers' salaries," is the motivating object of the tax increase," Withers' statement continues, "and everything else is subordinate to that."

"It seems clear to me that the only promise that can honestly be made at this time is that in the expenditure of this money the best interests of the children will have first consideration, no legitimate claim of any employee upon the board or of officers will be ignored, the interests of the elementary teachers will certainly not be overlooked, and every act of the board or of its officers affecting the expenditure of this money will be open to the knowledge of the public."

MRS. SAMUEL TO BE BURIED HERE.

Funeral services for Mrs. Anna M. Samuel, widow of Web M. Samuel, who died Wednesday morning at the home of her son, Newman Samuel, in Cincinnati, O., will be held at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow from her home, 3409 Washington avenue, to Bellefontaine Cemetery, the Rev. J. W. McVey, pastor of Second Presbyterian Church, officiating.

Mrs. Samuel was 79 years old and was born in Lexington, Mo. After her marriage she came to St. Louis, and her husband, who died 14 years ago, became president of the Merchants' Exchange. One daughter and four sons survive.

WHY KID LEATHER IS SPONSOR FOR STYLE

There is a softness and easy grace about a Kidskin Shoe that lends a decided touch of smartness to the foot. It molds so well to the lines of the ankle and instep, and "gives" just enough to make walking a pleasure.

RADICALS' ACTIVITY IN U. S. CENTERS ON LENINE'S WRITINGS

Army Intelligence Officer
Tells Senate Steel Strike Committee of Discoveries at Gary.

PROPAGANDA GOING THROUGH MAIL
Names of Anarchists Given Department of Justice Last Spring, but He Knows of No Prosecutions.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Effects of the steel strike in Gary, Ind., and some sidelights on anarchistic activities in the district, were given this evening to the Senate subcommittee on the steel strike, by Lieut. D. C. VanBuren, an intelligence officer on the staff of Major-General Leonard Wood, commander of the central district, was the first witness.

"The first interest in Gary," he said, "came when Chief of Police Forbes came to Chicago from that city last spring with a request for machine guns and military intervention. He told us the 'reds' there were planning to parade May 4 and to start a revolution. Two names were given to us as those of the leaders of the anarchist club at Gary, Ivanoff and De George. They were Russians or Austrians. De George was a chemist, and we learned later that he was operating near the Aetna Explosive Works outside of Gary, where gun cotton was available from the wastes outside the mill.

Replying to Chairman Kenyon, Lieut. VanBuren said a report was sent to the Department of Justice, but so far as he knew there had been no prosecution. He added that the two men had left Gary.

Describing military intervention in Gary, the witness said: "No one has even suffered a black eye since."

"We found in Gary after military occupation there, tremendous quantities of 'red' literature," he continued, explaining that local police and associations of citizens had prepared the way for raids on the storage places.

On the bible of the 'red,' the anarchist and Bolshevik, he said, "is the manifesto of the Communist party of Russia, put out as what is known as the 'third international' which assembled at Moscow in March. Many thousand copies of this were in Gary."

Lieut. VanBuren read extracts from a booklet seized at Gary. It urged revolution upon all workers in all lands in the name of the "conquering proletariat of Russia," and said "open combat" was the only road to the redress of alleged grievances.

Center on Lenin and Trotsky.
"All the radicals of the country are centering on the propaganda of Lenin and Trotsky," the witness continued. "I call to your attention
the fact that it was printed in Chicago by the 'Arbeiter Zeitung Publishing Co.,' which is significant."

"Is this stuff going through the mail?" Chairman Kenyon inquired.
"Oh, yes," VanBuren said.

"Well, it should better be stopped
if our Government is not to become impotent," remarked Mr. Kenyon.

"Are there any organizations in Gary which support this program?"
asked Senator Philp, Republican, of Colorado. "Yes, I have a list of them," said the witness.

He commenced producing a series of documents printed in Russian with names of societies attached and a considerable quantity of I. W. W. literature.

"How many foreigners are taking part in this strike at Gary?" asked Senator McKellar, Democrat, of Tennessee. "I haven't found an American yet," the witness said, "though some of the leaders have second naturalization papers."

"Here are some of the productions of the Union of Russian Workers," Lieut. VanBuren continued. "That's a straight anarchist society. Here's one of them, entitled 'The Crimes of God,' an antireligious pamphlet disturbance war."

"A whole series of tracts and pamphlets in Russian, put out by the same group, were read in the record."
"Did you get these in houses, or how?" Chairman Kenyon asked. "In houses and halls," VanBuren replied.

"Sometimes men arrested would have
I. W. W. literature in their pockets."
"Has been charged that this material was sent into Gary to create prejudice against the strikers," said Chairman Kenyon. "We only know we found it there," VanBuren returned.

"These people who had it usually had a big picture of Lenin and Trotsky. We found literally thousands of these photographs. It was reported to us that Richard Verhagen, vice president and treasurer of the steel workers' council at Gary,
was a revolutionist."

Lieut. VanBuren then read a handwritten of Verhagen's examination before a military tribunal. Verhagen admitted belief in revolutionary tactics, opposition to the existing form of Government, and faith only in organization along the lines of Soviet Russia.

"I asked Paul Glaser, attorney for the strikers, if he was a Bolshevik," Lieut. VanBuren continued. "He answered, 'You bet I am.' And he recommended to the Department of Justice that steps be taken to cancel his citizenship papers."

De Valera Discusses Objects of His Visit and Claims of Ireland

Sinn Fein Leader Says League Will Injure Province in Fight for Freedom.

"An interview with President de Valera" was the heading of a typewritten document which the visiting Irish independence leader handed to reporters this morning. It contained 13 questions, which de Valera said were the ones usually asked of him by reporters, and answers.

The first question was as to his purpose in visiting America, and the reply was:

"The main objects are: (1) to seek the official recognition by the Government of the United States of the Republic, which has been established in Ireland by the will of the Irish people in accordance with the American principle of self-determination; and (2) to inform the American people of the effect which the present covenant of the league of nations would have on such countries as Ireland, which are held by the military forces of powerful neighbors against the expressed will of the people, and so to secure that America will not sign a bond to become a participant in this tyranny and the guarantor of its continuance."

(De Valera did not refer, in the document, to the financial part of his mission, but this was stated by Dr. R. Emmett Kane, chairman of the local reception committee, who said in a prepared statement that de Valera came here "to put the Irish cause before the people of this country with a view to the recognition of the Irish Republic, and to stimulate interest in the loan of $10,000,000 that will be floated in a few weeks.")

Discusses League and Wilson.
The second and third questions related to Article 10 of the covenant of the league of nations, which provides that the members of the league shall preserve against external aggression the territorial integrity of member nations. De Valera said the Irish people favored a democratic league of nations, with the recognition of the principle of national self-determination, and equality of right among great and small nations. He said Article 10, interpreted in accordance with the ordinary meaning of words, would "cut off Ireland from such sympathy as the United States gave to the South American republics as they gave to Cuba, as they gave to Hungary and Greece, and as they gave in the recent war to Poland, Czechoslovakia and the rest."

Hindered Irish Question.
"Has the President Wilson helped or hindered the Irish cause?" was the third question, and was answered thus:

"President Wilson has expressed his sympathy for our cause, but objectively, the answer to this question will depend on the outcome of the issues about which I have come to America."

Complete Freedom Demanded.
"Would the Sinn Fein entertain any proposition short of complete independence?" was answered with a statement that "The Irish people will never sell their birthright to complete independence."

As to Irish unity, De Valera said
the Irish people were united in favor of independence as any nation is likely to be on any subject. "I might ask," he commented, "what is the prospect of unity of all Americans on, say, the prohibition question?" He said that a minority of one-fifth to one-fourth of the people of Ireland would probably favor continuing present political conditions, and that such conservative minorities existed everywhere, and should not be permitted to hinder political progress.

Regarding Ulster, he said: "The Irish nation will never dismember itself or partition its home." English propaganda, he said, had sought to give the impression that Ulster as a whole was Unionist, whereas, he declared, the Unionists had a majority in only four of the nine counties of Ulster.

Irish Part in War.
He said that Irish soldiers in the war "did not fight for anybody;
they fought for principle," and that they believed England, having professed that she was fighting for the freedom of small nations, would not deny freedom to Ireland. Ireland, he said, "would not permit herself to be conscripted by an alien Parliament," but he said more than 200, 000 enlisted voluntarily. This number, in view of relative population,
he said, would compare with 5,000,

"President of Irish Republic," photographed on his arrival here this morning.

He said the Irish question was a political question, with no religious phase, except in so far as the latter might be used as a shield for the political question.

As to England's treatment of Ireland, he referred to Frank P. Walsh's recent report, and outlined Irish financial relations to the British Government, in his argument that Ireland suffered financially from the present political arrangement.

"But," he said, "we don't want English rule, good or bad. Our objection to it is simply that it is foreign rule."

He proceeded to declare that armed resistance to "English usurpation" would continue, so long as its cause continues. Ireland, he said, was considered an integral part of England. Ireland will not be represented in the league, hence a third party would have to bring up Ireland's case, and England would claim, under article 15 of the league, that the matter was solely within its domestic jurisdiction, hence that the league could not act on it.

"President Wilson was approached at the peace conference on the question of a more liberal interpretation of Article XV, and he said he would use his influence unofficially toward that end. His unofficial efforts have been blocked in the past and they are likely to be in future."

De Valera was asked to comment on the announcement of Arthur J.
Balfour's resignation from the post of Foreign Secretary of the British Government. Balfour is considered by supporters of the Irish independence movement as particularly unfriendly to Ireland.

nation means nothing to Ireland," De Valera said. "England's domestic politics and Ireland's domestic politics are two separate and distinct things and Ireland is not concerned with the politics of England."

OPERATORS MEET HERE AND AGREE TO CUT COAL PRICE

Decision to Put Cost Back to Where It Was Before Recent Drastic Increases Reached Yesterday.

MAXIMUM CHARGE
FIXED AT SESSION

Dealers Can Sell at as Low a
No Minimum Is Put on Any Grade.

The price of coal will go back to where it was before dealers started making such drastic increases, as they did a few days ago, it was agreed at a meeting here today of operators representing all the 70 or 75 mines in the fifth and ninth districts, which supply virtually all the coal used here.

This decision followed a conference yesterday between operators and A. J. Maloney of Chicago, who has been appointed to fix fair coal prices in Illinois under the provisions of the anti-profiteering bill, which became effective Tuesday. In connection with increases of $1 to $2
a ton, which some dealers have been charging since the first of this week, Maloney pointed out that the penalty for charging unreasonable prices is a $5000 fine.

May Return Overcharges.
Operators said at the meeting today, held in the Pullerton Building, that those who had charged the increased prices this week likely would be asked to return the overcharges.

At the meeting today, it was agreed among the operators not to charge more than $3.25 a ton, at the mine, for any domestic coal; not more than $3 at the mine, for mine run, and not more than $2.25, at the mine, for screenings. These prices will make the retail prices about the same as they were prior to this week.
The dealers can charge as much less than these figures as they desire. There is no minimum.

The threat of the miners' strike resulted in the increase of this week.
Standard coal which had been sold $2.50 and $3 a ton, at the mine, went to $4 and $4.50, with no increase whatever in the cost of production.

Price Fixer Named.
John Peabody of Chicago has been appointed by the national fair-price commission, at Washington, to have jurisdiction over fixing coal prices, subject to the commission's approval, and he, in turn, appointed the Secretary of the Treasury.

The meeting of Illinois operators with Maloney yesterday at Chicago, W. J.
Jenkins was named to call the St. Louis operators together to stop the epidemic of price-raising.

A committee appointed today to see that the operators live up to the scale agreed on today, is composed of Jenkins, Louis Lumaugh, W. K.
Kavanaugh, H. B. Wessel and C. H.
Krause.

ANTI-STRIKE CLAUSE PROPOSED FOR RAILROAD CONTROL ACT

Measure Introduced in House by Texan Would Impose Fine and Imprisonment.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The first anti-strike legislation to be offered in the House was proposed yesterday by Representative Black, Democrat of Texas, who introduced an amendment to the railroad control act which would impose a $500 fine and six months' imprisonment for two or more persons combining to interrupt the movement of trains.

Black said his action was promptly by publication of a statement of Timothy Shea of the firemen that the rail employees were prepared to strike for increased wages and improved working conditions before the Government relinquished control of the roads, together with the statements of W. G. Lee of the trainmen engineers, that the power of calling strikes rested with the union leaders.

Whether anti-strike legislation will be contained in the House measure designed to solve the railroad problem of the return of the lines to private operation will be decided next week by the House Interstate Commerce Committee. A subcommittee virtually decided that the labor provision of its draft would not create an arbitration board for adjustment of disputes. When the proposal of the sub-committee is submitted to the full committee it is expected an effort will be made to amend it so as to carry an anti-strike prohibition. The bill will differ greatly from the Senate measure.

COMMITTEE APPROVES BILL FOR NEW FEDERAL BUILDING HERE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The House Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds today ordered a favorable report on the Dyer bill providing $1,000,000 for the erection of a Federal building in St. Louis to house various branches of the Government service, but not the treasury. In a statement to the committee, Secretary of the Treasury Glass said that the amount named would be sufficient for a building to accommodate Government offices
"now in congested quarters or occupying rented quarters." He estimated that the building would save the Government $21,610 annually in rent.

The chances of the measure to be passed, Dyer said, are increased by the fact that it comes before the House as a separate bill and not as part of an omnibus building bill.

SACCHARINE NOT FOOD, PEOPLE ARE WARNED

Bureau of Chemistry Says Sugar
Substitute, Made Here, Is a Drug.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Following the publication in Washington newspapers of a series of full-page advertisements by the Monsanto Chemical Works of St. Louis urging the use of saccharine as a means of relieving the sugar shortage, the Department of Agriculture has issued a forceful statement declaring that saccharine is a harmful drug the use of which in food is deleterious to health.

The department's statement says that "a large St. Louis firm" is now being prosecuted under the pure food laws for shipping in interstate commerce a parcel of saccharine labeled as harmless. Dr. Carl L. Alsberg, chief of the Bureau of Chemistry, said this morning that the firm referred to is the Monsanto Chemical Co., against which a case was filed before the war. He expected that the action would be heard in the Federal Court at St. Louis in the course of a month or two. Dr.
Alsberg said that the bureau had held since 1911 that saccharine in food is harmful and had successfully prosecuted manufacturers shipping
it under improper labels.

"Saccharine," he said, "is a drug and not food as such. It is not a food. Used in food it is regarded as an adulterant. Saccharine can be shipped in interstate commerce only when it is represented to be what it is—a drug."

Dr. Alsberg said his department had no control over statements made by manufacturers in advertisements.
But he regarded "some of the statements," in the Monsanto advertisements as "unwarranted." The statement by the department without mentioning the advertisements calls attention to previous warnings to housewives against the use of saccharine in place of sugar and condemns attempts to "exploit the sugar shortage" by capitalizing the public's lack of knowledge of the properties of the substitute.

Saccharine was the subject of a recent hearing before a subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Agriculture at which issue was joined between Dr. Alsberg and representatives of the Monsanto company.

Considerable interest in the subject
has been aroused in the Senate.
Senator Spencer of Missouri is the author of a resolution calling on the Committee of Agriculture to investigate the possibility of a wider use of saccharine. Dr. Alsberg said that the bureau's decision might be overturned in the courts, but meantime it would continue to hold that saccharine may involve a menace to health if used as food. No scientific evidence to the contrary has been adduced, he said, since the bureau announced this view.

WHITE MAN KILLED, 2 NEGROES INJURED BY CAVE-IN OF WALLS

They Were Helping to Remodel
Negro Mission at 2948
Market Street.

One white man was killed and two negroes were seriously injured at 8:20 a. m. today when they were caught under a cave-in of the walls of the Southern Negro Baptist Mission, 2948 Market street. The dead man was identified as A. M.
Spurling, a carpenter of Rochester,
N. Y., by a receipt from the Monroe County, N. Y., Carpenters' District Council found in his pocket.

Five men, four negroes and the white man, were at work remodeling
the building when the walls fell.
Two of the negroes, William Foster,
24 years old, of 2311 Laclede avenue, and William Hardin, 57, of 1706 Biddle street, suffered serious injuries and are at the city hospital.

In the remodeling of the mission building beams were used to support the walls pending the removal of the partitions and it is the belief of workmen that the beams were too heavy. The contractor in charge of the work was Moss Wright, 4451 Kennerly avenue.

The body of Spurling, whose address in St. Louis is not known, was found near a door. It is believed he heard the crack of the walls and tried to escape. Firemen removed the body from under a pile of brick and broken wood.

BAPTISTS OF MISSOURI ADJOURN IN HARMONY

"Missouri Plan" Followers Return to Fold After Compromise of Alignment Dispute.

Harmony prevailed at the adjournment last night of the Missouri Baptist General Association, which met in a three-day convention at the Third Baptist Church, Grand and Washington avenues, two days of which were devoted to a threatened split in the association because of the association's alignment with the National Southern Baptist Convention. Judge David H. Harris of Fulton, newly-elected moderator of the association, brought the "Missouri plan" followers back into the fold by an interpretive resolution defining how the executive board should act. The session was closed last night by the Rev. Dr. George W. Truett of Dallas, Tex., who outlined the $75,000,000 campaign the Southern Convention will conduct for funds for reconstruction. All delegates offered support of the project. Missouri's quota is $3,000,000. Five years are necessary for the campaign.

Judge Harris' resolution left churches free to divide their offerings between the Northern and Southern conventions but urged all churches to align themselves with one or the other body. After six months all churches not wholly or partly aligned with the Northern convention will be considered as desiring to join the Southern group. The resolution passed unanimously.

The Rev. George L. Hale of Joplin, a leader of the Southern sympathizers, later offered a resolution, which was passed, giving permission to the Northern convention to send literature and missionaries to churches and institutions aligned wholly or in part with that convention. One of the contentions of the "Missouri plan" followers was that the State would be closed to Northern influence.

Following the passage of the Harris resolution the meeting of "Missouri plan" supporters which was to have been held at the Union Methodist Church was abandoned. About 400 of the ministers had met in that church Wednesday and discussed the advisability of forming a new convention. Wednesday a division seemed probable.

Recurrence of the trouble threatened yesterday afternoon when the Publications Committee did not include the Word and Way Magazine in its report. It was incorporated in the report with many dissenting votes.

All the recommendations of the Nominating Committee were accepted yesterday morning. Judge Harris, chairman of the committee, offered a minority report asking that his name not be considered for moderator. The majority report was adopted. Judge Harris succeeds C. P. Storrs of Slater, who has been moderator for three years. The Rev. J. P. Graham of St. Louis and Mrs. Chester Ross of Webster Groves were elected to the executive board. The Rev. J. P. Greene, formerly pastor of the Third Baptist Church, now president of William Jewell College, delivered an address on missionary and educational work yesterday morning.

"To interest men of industry in the political duties of citizenship and encourage them to express their opinions on and work for constructive legislation."

dom of the worker and the employer; to resist any attempt to restrict the right of men to choose where and on what terms they will work; to insist upon the right of industry to employ whom it chooses."

3 COMMITTEES NAMED TO INVESTIGATE PRICES

Commission to Get Reports Next Thursday on Food, Shoes and Clothing.

The first step toward the regulation of prices of necessities in St. Louis was taken by the St. Louis Fair Price Commission yesterday afternoon at a meeting in the Municipal Court Building when three subcommittees were appointed to investigate prevailing prices of food, clothing and shoes preparatory to establishing a fair price for these commodities next week.

The reports and recommendations of the subcommittees will be laid before the commission at a meeting next Thursday afternoon in the office of Assistant Circuit Attorney P. E. Williams.

The committee on shoes is composed of Charles E. Williams, president of the Williams Shoe Co., and James T. Pettus, vice president of the International Shoe Co. The food committee consists of Leslie Lieber, a wholesale grocer, and James Westfall, secretary of the Retail Grocers' Association. E. L. Howe, vice president of Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney Dry Goods Co. and K. F. Niemoeller, manager of the Associated Retailers, will report on the prices of wearing apparel.

The commission decided that its price lists would be based on the original cost to the dealer, rather than the replacement costs. If replacements are necessary in individual cases, dealers probably will be permitted to average the cost of their original stock with the cost of the new goods and base their retail price on this average.

The commission announced that it will endeavor to fix a fair percentage of profit on all commodities and that prosecutions will be instituted against dealers who ask larger profits than those allowed.

Circuit Attorney McDaniel, Fair Price Commissioner of Missouri, read the amendment to the food control act which authorizes the creation of the Fair Price Commission and explained its provisions to the members. The law is a war measure and will continue in operation until peace has formally been declared between the United States and Germany. The commission cannot subpoena witnesses but the United States District Attorney is directed to aid in enforcing the commission's prices.

Valuable Bequest to Gov. Deneen. Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—Several valuable lots of Pullman (Ill.) real estate were left to former Gov. Charles S. Deneen in the will of former Superior Court Judge Axel Chrystaus. It has become known. Belgian Queen Originated Her Fashion in Hats While Paying Visit to Trenches

Elizabeth Says She Found It Convenient to Wind Silk Around Head and Now Clings to Idea.

By the Associated Press.
ON BOARD KING ALBERT'S TRAIN IN PENNSYLVANIA, Oct. 24.—Queen Elizabeth of the Belgians advocates votes for women, but she does not believe in the equality of the sexes any more than in employing militant methods to obtain franchise. She said so today in the first interview she has given in America.

War has no terrors for her majesty and she felt no fear of German conquest, but she was as embarrassed as a girl when asked in English her views on topics of common interest to all women. She turned her head aside and the color flooded her cheeks as she exclaimed, "What shall I do," in French to Lieutenant-Colonel Nolf, her physician, who sat beside her regarding her with a paternal smile, half of amusement.

She clung gamely to English, however, and displayed one of her traits of character when she quietly, but with obvious determination, disregarded a suggestion that she converse in French and let Dr. Nolf act as interpreter. As the interview proceeded she regained her serenity and seemed to enjoy it.

"It is like school," she said. "You are the teacher and I the pupil having my examination."

Red-Cheeked Girls in Factories. "You ask if I have gained any impressions from the factories I have visited," her majesty continued with one of her charming smiles. "I have been very much impressed with the clear-eyed, red-cheeked girls I have seen in your work rooms. I think their evident happiness is due to the pure air, the cleanliness and the general splendid surroundings. It is my hope that employers of working people in Belgium and all over Europe will model their factories after those in the United States."

"We have lost so many men in war," she added sadly, "that the women must work, and as women are the mothers of the race everything possible should be done to protect them."

Queen Elizabeth has very definite ideas on the education of girls, it developed. She does not believe in the separation of the sexes; in school although she advocates emphatically educating girls along one line and boys along quite another.

"The war taught me," she said, "that there is no equality of the sexes. My husband was a soldier and I was a nurse. So it was with all women. The future should see work divided along the same lines. When women are forced to earn their own living I have no objection to their doing that for which they are best fitted, but those who do not need to work should learn hygiene and general hospital work. They should be social workers, librarians, playground instructors."

Her Majesty explained, however, that lack of equality between the sexes should not prevent women from voting.

"I know they are best qualified to select school trustees," she said with a nod of her head. "For they know more about school affairs and their intuition will tell them what men are best qualified for office in the general elections."

Asked how best the women of America can aid in the reconstruction of Belgium aside from gifts of money, her Majesty seemed rather puzzled.

"It is difficult to bring about a close understanding between two peoples who speak different languages," she responded after a few moments' hesitation. "One way would be for us Belgians to learn English, and you Americans to learn French."

As a means to this end she suggested exchange of professorships, not only in colleges but also in high schools.

Herself a student of medicine and the daughter of a world-famed oculist, although he was a Bavarian Duke, the Queen has been fascinated by the hospitals in the United States and she has lost no opportunity to visit them. Her great ambition is to have established in Belgium an institution similar to the Rockefeller Institution.

She has been vastly impressed with the size of the hospitals she has inspected and their complete equipment. The research laboratories in them have been a revelation to her.

Enjoying View of America. The Queen looked rather worn and she was asked if she were not weary of traveling.

"No, no, I enjoy it," she responded. "It must be your climate which keeps me feeling so well."

She confessed that she had been rather bewildered by the great expanse of America but explained that she looked upon the map each day the place she visited.

Her majesty wore a gown of yellow charmeuse silk, cut in long and flowing lines, and admitted it was of her own designing.

"What does your majesty think of the trend of modern fashions for women?" she was asked.

"They change so often I can't keep track of them," was the laughing reply. "What are they?"

Short skirts came first to mind. "I do not wear them," she responded with a shrug of her shoulders. "I am always behind the procession."

The prediction was made that her preference for turbans would establish a new military mode in this country and the Queen explained why she always wears close-fitting hats. She originated the style during the war when she found it so convenient to wind a simple piece of silk around her head when she visited the trenches or the hospitals. She has become so attached to the idea that she positively refuses to abandon it.

Her majesty ended the interview only when it was reported to her that guests she had summoned had been kept waiting several minutes.

A QUARTER MILLION DOLLAR PURCHASE SALE!

Coming as it does at the very beginning of the new season, this gigantic purchase stands out as the biggest clothing scoop any store has accomplished in many months. ENGINEER IS KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Charles Withers, 69, Was Crossing Street When Government Meat Inspector's Car Hit Him.

Charles Withers, 69 years old, of 4265 Connecticut street, a stationary engineer of the Granite Bituminous Paving Co., 3943 Duncan avenue, was hit by an automobile at 6 a. m. today, while crossing the street at Vandeventer avenue and Duncan avenue, and died 20 minutes later in an ambulance on the way to the city hospital. It was the seventy-fourth automobile fatality this year, three more than in the same period last year.

Thomas C. Crowe Jr., 28 years old, 4531 Laclede avenue, a Government meat inspector, who drove the car that hit Withers, summoned the ambulance and followed it to the hospital. He was arrested and taken to the Newstead avenue police station.

Crowe, who is being held for the coroner's inquest, gave the only available version of the accident. He said he was going south on Vandeventer avenue at a moderate rate of speed and had his headlights on, as it was dark. At Duncan street, he said, Withers suddenly stepped out of the darkness into the glare of the left headlight, but too near to the car to avert the accident. Withers is survived by a widow and three children—two daughters and a son.

Miss Marian Saril, 18 years old, of 6117 Kensington avenue, an operator of the Kinloch Telephone Co., was struck at 5 p. m. yesterday by an automobile while alighting from an eastbound Olive car at Walton avenue. She was taken to her home unconscious, suffering from cuts on the head and internal injuries. The automobile which struck Miss Saril did not stop.

Sylvester O'Connell, 23 years old, of 1439 North Twenty-second street, was hurled through the windshield of his truck at 3 p. m. yesterday, when one of his tires blew out, causing him to crash into the automobile of Walter Diefenbach, of 3737 Hydraulic avenue, near Twelfth and Walnut streets. O'Connell suffered concussion of the brain and scalp wounds.

FIREMAN EXONERATED BY JURY
 Man Hit With Fist Had Died Following Operation.

A coroner's jury today exonerated John Lane, 21 years old, of 1659 Finney avenue, a fireman of No. 14 Engine Company, of responsibility for the death of Charles Digrespano, 31, 518 Wash street, returning a verdict for Lane of self-defense. Digrespano died yesterday at the Baptist Hospital following an operation to remove a blood clot from his brain, caused by fracture of the skull.

About 10 p. m. Oct. 4 Lane was stopped by Digrespano and several other Italians at Fifteenth street and Franklin avenue, who asked him for the time. Suspecting robbery, Lane said he had no watch, and Digrespano, he said, struck at him. He hit the Italian with his fist.

FIREMEN CAN BUY NEW SHIRTS
 Chief Panzer of the Fire Department today issued an order allowing firemen to purchase other than the regulation blue flannel shirts that have been worn in the Fire Department for 35 years. The flannel shirt type has 22 decorative pearl buttons, and the price has advanced from $6. in 1914, to $22. When Chief Panzer found that plain blue flannel shirts could be purchased at $8.75 to $4.25, he abrogated the rule for the high-priced regulation, pearl-button shirt.

GOVERNMENT BEATEN BY VOTE IN COMMONS

Split Arises Over Small Issue Arising Over Alien Restriction Bill.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch,
London, Oct. 24.—(New York World.)

LONDON, Oct. 24.—In the House of Commons last night the Government suffered a defeat which may have serious political consequences, though the point at issue was a comparatively small one, arising during the report stage of the alien restriction bill. The vote on an amendment to the bill was 185 to 115 against the Government.

As the bill was returned from the standing committee a new clause was introduced against the Government providing that "no alien shall hold a pilotage certificate for any port in the United Kingdom." This clause was proposed in the committee by Commander Kenworthy and carried against the Government by 15 votes to 4.

When the clause was considered on report Home Secretary Shortt moved to add to the amendment "except in cases for which special provision is made by the pilotage act of 1913." Sir Frederick Bantock proposed that the Government exception should be confined to France, and Shortt accepted this. Then the House divided on the Government amendment as amended by the Bantock suggestion and the voting for it showed a Government minority of 72.

Bonar Law at once moved adjournment of the House until Monday that the Government may get its bearings and this was carried. The best informed politicians are not inclined to think that the Government will resign. It is thought possible, however, that Shortt, in whose care the alien bill is, may resign.

The Ministerial Council under the presidency of Premier Lloyd George discussed the political situation this morning and later the entire Cabinet assembled.

600 GERMAN OFFICERS LISTED BY ALLIED POWERS FOR TRIAL

Charged With "Unpardonable Crimes" and Demand for Extradition Will Be Presented.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch,
Paris, Oct. 23.—French officers announce that lists have been drawn up by France, Belgium and some of the other allied Powers of 600 German officers who committed "unpardonable crimes" in the course of the war. Their names, together or separately, will be presented to the German Government with a demand for extradition.

It will be remembered that in accepting the treaty of Versailles Germany consented to surrender those criminals when asked to do so. Indictments have been drawn up only after careful investigation on the spot where the offense was committed.

The Germans will be arraigned for three sorts of crime: First, robbery, incendiarism and breaches of the common law; second, mistreatment of civilians in the invaded territories; and third, violations of the rules of civilized warfare, chiefly in respect to the treatment of allied soldiers.

As they stand, the names of Gen. Ludendorff, Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria and Gen. von Bohn are charged with many crimes. Of the others, the following are cited at random: Baron von der Lancken, Gen. von Bissing and Gen. von Sauberscheide for deportations, the theft of Belgian industrial machinery and the judicial murder of Capt. Fryatt and Miss Edith Cavell; Col. von Kiewitz and Col. Mantoufel for the sack of Louvain; Col. Meister, Maj. Schlick, Maj. Kleinmanns, Capt. Wilke and Capt. von Lohren for the murder of 665 innocent civilians at Dinant in August, 1914. Maj. Schlick alone is said to have executed 17 children less than 15 years old. Gen. von Graevenitz, Count von Bismarck and Capt. Himmel for the deportation of 25,000 young girls from Lille; Gen. von Tesny for the massacre of 112 inhabitants of Alton in 1914; Lieutenant-Colonel Wachter for the execution of one French woman and 11 English civilians at Guise; the commander of the prison camp at Cassel, Germany, for causing the death of thousands of allied soldiers by the deliberate propagation of tuberculosis.

BOY AND GIRL WHO RAN AWAY TOGETHER RETURN TO PARENTS

Children, 13, Say They Have Been Living Outdoors in Country Since Disappearing Tuesday.

Helen Shaw, 13 years old, of 3915 Lincoln avenue, and Bert Bradbury, 13, of 4663A Lincoln avenue, who disappeared simultaneously last Tuesday and for whom policemen were searching, returned to their homes yesterday evening. Their parents had them taken to the police station to be questioned.

Both said they were attracted to one another because of their mutual admiration for outdoor life. Tuesday when they left home, they said, they went to Forest Park and "walked around" among the trees for many hours and then went into the country, where they had lived in the open since. They obtained food from farmers and slept on the ground or in sheds.

They were sent to their homes after both had promised not to write notes or run away again.

BENTON (ILL.) BANDITS TO PRISON

Four Who Stole $42,000 Mine Payroll Plead Guilty.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
BENTON, Ill., Oct. 24.—Angelo Trini, Albert Trini, Antonio Fennell and Rosi Lubin, who, with Nels Perdigatto, seized the $42,000 payroll of the Middle Fork mine here June 27, last, after wounding William Devillbiss and John Dolan, were secretly brought to Benton yesterday from Belleville jail. Among the guards was Develbiss, who shot and killed

Perdigatto as the gang fled from the mine office to their automobile. In the Ewing Creek bottoms a battle was fought between the bandits and several hundred men.
They pleaded guilty to highway robbery and Judge Kern sentenced them to the penitentiary for a term of from 10 years to life. If Dolan, who is still in a critical condition in St. John's Hospital in St. Louis, should die between now and June 28 of next year, the bandits will be brought from the penitentiary and tried for murder.

SIBERIA MAY BE GIVEN DIRECT MAIL AND TELEGRAPH TO NOME

Contemplated Service Would Make Alaskan City Market for Northeast Siberia.

By the Associated Press.
NOME, Alaska, Sept. 15.—Establishment of direct mail and telegraphic communication between Nome and Anadyr, Siberia, is now under investigation by two inspectors of the Postoffice Department. The proposition, if carried out, bears large possibilities for this once wealthy gold camp. In Northeast Siberia there are approximately 50,000 people who must provide the bulk of their supplies either from Nome, 100 miles away, or from Petropavlovsk, nearly 1000 miles distant. Nome, it is argued by officials interested in the Government's inquiry, should be the logical market for all of the vast areas lying north of Kamchatka peninsula.

By the close of this year's navigation period, it is estimated, nearly $500,000 worth of American goods will have been carried from Nome to the Siberian coast, with only a few small vessels engaged in the trade. Siberian furs in return for American goods seems to be the possibility of the future should the Government's service be established.

CLEMENCEAU REFUSES ACADEMY STIPEND, BUT NAPOLEON TOOK IT

Emperor's Personal Daybook for 1806 Shows He Collected Salary of 1200 Francs.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Oct. 1.—Premier Clemenceau's repeated statements to the effect that he would not except the salary paid to members of the French Academy after he has taken his seat among the "Immortals" recalls the fact that Napoleon never failed to collect this same stipend.

There has been found among the Napoleon's personal daybook, in which were minutely inscribed all receipts and disbursements. The 1806 volume begins thus:

"Salary of his Imperial and royal majesty as a member of the institute, 1200 francs."

Not one of the academicians, least of all Clemenceau, who have occupied seats under the cupola across the Bridge of Arts since the day of Richelieu, can boast of an item similar to the second one in Napoleon's budget. It read:

"French civil list, Emperor Napoleon, 25,000,000 francs."

ATTORNEY-GENERAL TO GET REPORT ON SUGAR

District Attorney Here Says He Will Recommend Action Following Admissions of Dealers.

United States District Attorney Hensley announced today that he would forward to the Attorney-General's office at Washington a complete report covering the admissions made to him yesterday by two St. Louis sugar dealers that they had realized fancy profits on the sale of sugar since the present shortage developed early in October.

Hensley said he would make recommendations to the Attorney-General concerning the action to be taken by the Government against profiteering in sugar, but he declined to state the nature of the recommendations.

Julius Koch, secretary of the E. Guckenheim Bakers' Supply Co., and H. W. Gildehaus, a wholesale grocer, were summoned before the District Attorney yesterday to answer complaints that they had profited in sugar and had practiced discrimination against certain customers in violation of the regulations under which they are licensed to sell foodstuffs. The hearing was held for the purpose of determining whether their licenses should not be revoked.

Both Koch and Gildehaus admitted, under cross-examination, that they had purchased sugar for $9.50 per 100 pounds and had sold it to retailers and others the same day for $14, $15 and $16 per 100 pounds.

Maximum Profit Fixed.
The maximum profit under the Food Control Act, which was strictly enforced during the actual period of war, was fixed at 35 cents per 100 pounds.

The dealers sought to justify their prices by citing losses incurred in handling other foodstuffs, such as lard and flour, and by stating that the sugar had depreciated in value to such an extent that it has been sold recently as chicken feed. They said the sugar prices were established to make up these losses and to meet the cost of replacing their sugar stocks.

Koch at one time said that brokers had informed him sugar would reach $20 per 100 pounds and that he had fixed his price to offset that replacement cost, and at another time, in response to a question, said that he would not handle sugar if it reached $20.

Thomas L. Anderson, attorney for the dealers, told the District Attorney that the Government, by sanctioning large exports of sugar and later by selling large quantities owned by it in Europe, had contributed to the conditions which brought about the shortage and high prices.

"That may be true," Hensley replied, "but it does not justify profiteering. The laws will be strictly enforced here and profiteers will be prosecuted."

Assistant District Attorney Wheeler said today that other dealers would be summoned to answer similar charges.

U-BOATS WON WILSON'S ILL-WILL, ENVOY SAYS

Bernstorff Testifies Germany
Could Have Obtained Better Peace.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Oct. 24.—Count von Bernstorff emerged untruffled from the strenuous cross-examination of yesterday's session of the subcommittee investigating war responsibility, during which he reiterated his opposition to submarine warfare and declared that Germany's refusal of President Wilson's proposals was the worst conceivable politics. He intimated that if his advice had been followed Germany would have had a better peace than at present.

The former Ambassador asserted that when President Wilson heard that the U-boat warfare was to begin, his former attitude of good will toward Germany turned to stern ill will. The President, he added, became convinced that Germany wanted a German peace and to rule the world, while President Wilson wanted a mere lasting peace, with freedom of the seas.

President Wilson's peace offer was a matter of little concern to the German Emperor, according to the evidence. Furthermore, the intervention of the United States apparently was not seriously considered by the Emperor.

Ignorance United States. The incident caused a sensation and occurred during the examination of Count von Bernstorff. The Socialist Deputy, Dr. Sinsheimer, turned toward von Bernstorff and said:

"The Kaiser's telegram, to which you refer, dated Jan. 16, 1917, and addressed to Herr Zimmermann, Foreign Secretary, says literally: 'His majesty instructs me to thank you for your communication. His majesty does not care a bit about President Wilson's offer. If a breach with America cannot be prevented, it cannot be helped. Events are developing.'"

There was much excitement at the hearing when the message was read. Dr. Karl Helfferich, former Vice Chancellor, whispered, "Nonsense." Dr. Sinsheimer maintained that the peace conditions sent to President Wilson on Jan. 25, 1917, which were said to be the same as the German offer on Dec. 13, 1916, were really nothing like them.

Everyone present appeared astounded at this statement and Count von Bernstorff exclaimed excitedly: "Then I am told this today for the first time."

Criticized by Kaiser. Under cross-examination von Bernstorff quoted the German Emperor and Gen. Ludendorff on his President's return from Washington. The Emperor said von Bernstorff had failed on two points: first, in allowing the British to confiscate the trunk with a Swedish diplomat's papers thought to contain his Mexican telegrams, and second, by permitting the United States to send James W. Gerard to Germany as Ambassador.

Ludendorff accused him of attempting to make peace by agitating against the submarine war and declared that the U-boat war would bring peace in three months. He then told the former Ambassador that President Wilson's peace proposal could not pass the Reichstag; it would be championed only by the Socialists, adding that a "rotten peace" was impossible.

At the sitting of the question of Poland's fate in connection with President Wilson's peace efforts was discussed. Count von Bernstorff said that in his discussions with the United States Government there was no question of territory concerned in giving Poland access to the sea or being withdrawn from German sovereignty. Replying to another question the former Ambassador said: "Without America's help the Entente could not have vanquished Germany. If we had succeeded in preventing war with America a peace of understanding would at least have been possible."

Von Bernstorff also expressed the opinion that President Wilson would have raised no difficulties had the proposed world conference to settle peace solved the Polish question in a manner differing with President Wilson's ideas.

Warned War Was Unavoidable. The discussion turned largely upon the period of the declaration by Germany of her submarine warfare. Von Bernstorff testified that after President Wilson's message to Congress on Jan. 22, E. M. House, the President's confidential adviser, summoned him to New York, and thereupon von Bernstorff cabled his Government saying that the United States did not intend interference in territorial questions but wanted Germany's peace conditions made public as evidence of Germany's sincerity, and adding:

"If the submarine warfare is begun straightaway, the President would feel it a blow in the face and war with America would be unavoidable."

Dr. Sinsheimer pointed out that von Bernstorff was aware officially Jan. 16 that submarine warfare had been decided on and that the Ambassador was to present a note to the Washington Government concerning it on Jan. 31. Von Bernstorff then continued:

"I communicated the peace conditions to Mr. House on the 30th and on the 31st presented the declaration of submarine warfare. Afterwards I negotiated with nobody."

Dr. Sinsheimer read Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg's reply to von Bernstorff accepting mediation, but declining to make public Germany's conditions, because in the face of the entente's announced terms that would have been regarded as a sign of weakness and would prolong the war.

Few Days Too Late. For President Wilson's personal information and as a proof of confidence, however, von Bethmann-Hollweg outlined Germany's conditions and indicated Germany's readiness to participate in the conference mentioned in the President's message to the Senate. The Chancellor added:

"If President Wilson's offer had been made a few days earlier Germany could have postponed the submarine warfare, which is now unfortunately impossible."

Count Bernstorff said he had communicated everything to Mr. House.

The subcommittee adjourned until Oct. 31, when Count von Bethmann-Hollweg, former Chancellor, will be examined, and if necessary, be confronted with Count von Bernstorff.

SURE WAY TO GET RID OF DANDRUFF

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon, apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

STUNTS OVER GERMAN LINES SENT FRENCH AGE TO "BRIG"

Lieut. Nungesser Gave Special Performance for Benefit of His Commanding Officer.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—Lieut. Nungesser, second to Fonck only among the French air fighters in the number of German machines downed during the war, is shortly to make his debut in newspaper work. He has been officially credited with bringing down 31 German airplanes.

His new colleagues hope his debut will not have the same result as did the beginning of his air career. After obtaining his commission Nungesser was ordered to report at a flying field near Nancy. Arriving in sight of the field, he began executing many loop-the-loops, upside down stunts, sliding on the wings, and all the acrobatics known to flying men.

Landing at last, his superior officer said to him sternly: "Green one, acrobatics are all right in their place but we shall have to see you perform them before the Germans." Nungesser asked his mechanic to fill his gasoline tank and half an hour later he was off to the German lines. Arriving over the trenches he repeated his performance, in full view of his comrades and also of the officer in charge.

"There you are," Nungesser said to the Colonel, "it is done."

"Fifteen days in the brig," or words to that effect, said the Colonel.

EARL CURZON TAKES BALFOUR'S PLACE AS FOREIGN SECRETARY

Change of Positions Announced in Official Statement Issued at London.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—It is officially announced that Earl Curzon has been appointed Foreign Secretary in succession to Arthur J. Balfour. Mr. Balfour has been appointed Lord President of the Council to succeed Earl Curzon.

Mr. Balfour has had almost a half century of public service, having first taken his seat in Parliament in 1874. His connection with the foreign policy of the British Empire was established almost immediately, as he was appointed private secretary to the Marquis of Salisbury, then Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, in 1874, and he was a member of the British Mission under Lord Salisbury and Beaconsfield at the Berlin conference in 1878.

A few years more saw him advanced to a seat in the cabinet as Secretary for Scotland in 1886. He became leader of the House of Commons in 1891 and Prime Minister in 1902.

It was recently reported in London that upon his retirement as Foreign Secretary Mr. Balfour would be created Earl and would succeed Viscount Grey as British Ambassador to the United States when the latter had finished his mission in this country.

MINER, SHOT RESISTING ROBBERY ON OCT. 2, IS HELD UP AGAIN

Four Men Take His Purse Within Block of First Hold-Up, He Tells Policemen.

Paul Sale, 32 years old, a miner visiting at 419 Wash street, who was shot in the jaw while resisting highwaymen who tried to rob him near Eighth and Wash streets, Oct. 2, was the victim of highwaymen again last night near Ninth and Wash streets, a block from the original hold-up.

He told police he was on his way home when four men stopped him and at the point of a revolver held him up while they searched him and took a purse. The purse, he said, did not contain his money, including only some private papers. He told police he believed the men were the same as the ones concerned when he was shot and that they apparently believed he carried a large sum of money with him.

He was only recently discharged from the city hospital and his head is still encased in bandages.

Other hold-ups were reported by William Walters, 1208 Franklin avenue, Twentieth and Olive streets, two armed men, 117, and L. R. Miller, Detroit, Mich., Broadway and Zepp streets, two men, $40.

GOVERNMENT TO UNLOAD SHIPS IF LONGSHOREMEN REMAIN OUT

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Unless the unauthorized strike of longshoremen at this port is called off by tonight, the United States Shipping Board will undertake to end the tie-up by loading and unloading its ships with men who will be quartered on a vessel now moored at one of the transatlantic piers, according to an announcement by board officials here.

The Government has made its last appeal to the striking longshoremen to return to work, the statement said. The strike terminated at 6:30 p. m. today. Police protection for workers will be requested, and in event it is inadequate, it was said that "higher authority would be appealed to."

Yesterday approximately 3000 men, many from the ranks of strikers, reported for work, but for the most part the marine tie-up remained unbroken as a result of the decision of 20 locals not to deal with the National Adjustment Commission, but to negotiate through the conciliation committee, of which Mayor Hylan is a member. A meeting of this committee has been called for this afternoon at the city hall.

WATERWAYS FEATURES OF RAILWAY REORGANIZATION BILL

Provisions for Co-ordination of Rail and Water Transport Systems

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Several provisions indicating a growing appreciation of the importance of inland waterway development are contained in the Cummins railroad reorganization bill reported to the Senate late yesterday. Concerning the waterway features, Senator Cummins said in the course of a statement explaining the measure:

"It provides for co-ordination of the rail and water transport system and for intimately correlating the railroad system with the maritime transportation system. One of the most important features is the advance in dealing with water transportation. It is decided the national policy to encourage water transportation and the Interstate Commerce Commission is required to familiarize itself with facilities for water commerce and given power to bring about the co-ordination of rail and water facilities."

"The committee which framed the bill has undertaken to make it as easy for the interior shippers to get overseas service as for communities on the seaboard. The cost of the transfer from rail to boat is hereafter to be absorbed by the railroad carriers under rules fixed by the commission. The railroad shall issue through bill of lading, showing the cost of the rail and water services separately. The railroad is required to deliver the freight on board the boat."

REPRESENTATIVE IS UNSEATED

Holds Election of Former Mayor of Boston Was Illegal.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Without a record vote the House yesterday unseated Representative John F. Fitzgerald of Massachusetts, former mayor of Boston and seated former Representative Peter F. Tague. Both Fitzgerald and Tague are Democrats. By its final action the House accepted the report of a majority of its elections committee, headed by Representative Goodall, Republican, Maine, which threw out the vote in three precincts of the Fifth Ward of Boston, with the result that Tague was held to have received a plurality of the votes in the election last November.

In urging the adoption of this report, Goodall asserted that for the House to sustain the committee would have the effect of serving notice on political bosses that they could not override Congress by "illegal actions" at an election.

STRANGER GRAFTS $27 DRESS

Orders Bill of Goods for Alabama Firm but Takes Garment With Him. A well dressed man about 40 years old visited the Marquette Cigar and Suit Co., 1609-11 Washington avenue, last Thursday, said he represented a coal company in Yonkers, Ala., and ordered a bill of goods aggregating $465.50. He ordered the goods shipped C. O. D. and then selected a silk dress, which he said he wanted for his wife, and ordered the charges, $27, filed with the larger bill of goods. He took the dress with him. Later when the firm investigated they learned the man had no connection with the coal company and the bill of goods he had ordered was returned to the firm. Detectives are seeking the stranger.

GOMPERS GIVEN AN OVATION

Head of A. F. of L. Tells Textile Workers to Pursue Aims Calmly.

By the Associated Press.
BALTIMORE, Oct. 24.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, was given a tremendous ovation when he appeared before the United Textile Workers in convention here. Gompers urged the textile workers to pursue their aims calmly and avoid overreaching themselves. Referring to the employers' group at the Washington conference, while condemning their course, he laid most of the blame not on the actual employers in the group, but upon their lawyers.

"I am reliably informed," he said "that it was the lawyers in the employers' group who cast the majority of the votes in that group against the declarations of labor."

NAMES OF 6 DEMOCRATS DISCUSSED FOR SENATE

Missouri Congressmen Looking Forward to Nominating a Winner.

By the Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—With increasing frequency, as the time draws near when they will go back home to rest in preparation for the December term, the members of the Democratic wing of the Missouri delegation in Congress are getting together in little knots of three or four or half a dozen to talk over the situation. The league of nations, of course, is a topic of major interest, as it is with everybody at the capital; but the league situation is not the one here referred to. The political situation in Missouri is the topic chiefly engrossing the minds of the Congressmen from that State; and the main subdivision of that topic is, Who is to be the party's nominee for the Senate?

Six names are being principally discussed—the names of Champ Clark, David R. Francis, Charles M. Hay, Gov. Gardner, Breckinridge Long and J. M. Johnson.

Clark has his eye on the Senate, all arguments predicated on his one-time refusal of a seat to the contrary notwithstanding. This is not to say that the former Speaker has made a formal announcement of his candidacy, nor even that he has fully made up his mind to run. But he has made it known that he has received from Missouri letters asking him to run. He undoubtedly is thinking about running.

Folk's Diet Recalled.

Clark is waiting to see what former Gov. Francis now an Ambassador without a country, is going to do. Reports persist among the delegation that Francis will get into the race, though nobody, apparently, has heard directly from Francis on the subject. The possibility that he will run is causing about the same sort of uncertainty and anxiety among the almost-avowed candidates as the prospect among the presidentially inclined by the failure of Wilson to declare flat-footedly against a third term. Watchful waiting is the reaction in both cases.

Some of the members of the delegation believe that Clark would make a strong candidate for the Senate; some believe that he would not. They differ regarding him as they do regarding the other possible candidates. What they want is a winner; that is the main consideration. They have not forgotten that Folk in the last campaign carried some Democratic members of Congress down to defeat and reduced the majority of some others to a dangerously low margin. Whether or not Folk was wholly to blame is beside the question; the point is that the Congressmen hold him responsible for the catastrophe and want a candidate who will help and not hinder their own chances. Their interest is personal, political and immediate. They want a winner for the party's good and their own. It goes without saying that Folk as a candidate does not enter into their calculations.

Breckinridge Long's Case.

Breckinridge Long, Third Assistant Secretary of State, was "on the hill" last week sounding out some of the Missourians. Long is not yet an avowed candidate for the Senate, but there is every indication that he is in the running. Long is popular; many of the Missourians here are beholden to him for favors; but he has yet a good deal of missionary work to do if he is to convince the hard-headed politicians from his home State that he is the man to put up against Spencer, or whomever else the Republicans may name.

Paradoxical as it may seem, "Breck" Long is handicapped by his success in the performance of duties that have fallen to his lot as the Third Assistant Secretary. He made a fine cicerone for the various foreign delegations that came here during the war, and now he has charge for the State Department, of the details of King Albert's tour of the country. Such activities as these have brought him much into the social limelight and given him the reputation, among the Missouri delegation, of being the "society man" of the administration. Against his chances of success, if he should be nominated, it is argued that a St. Louisan with the tag of "society man" would not get far with a country audience.

The irony of it is, from Long's point of view, that in the popular mind his other achievements as a member of the administration have been eclipsed by his "butterfly" activities. And even these activities, it must in fairness to Long be pointed out, have had their serious side. He was held personally responsible for the safety of America's distinguished visitors. In arranging for their tours of this country, Long did a lot of hard, exacting work, involving a multiplicity of details.

Other Possibilities.

There remain Johnston, Hay and Gardner. Of Johnston, the composite view of the delegation seems to be that he is a wizard in finance but a babe in politics, who might make a showing under the direction of an experienced campaign manager.

Hay, it is believed, has elements of strength. He is in the good graces of the administration by virtue of his speeches in favor of the league of nations.

As to Gov. Gardner, the members of the delegation are agreed on one point. That is that he is running for the Senate, whatever may have been said to the contrary.

BOY, 17, TAKEN IN STORE, ADMITS TWO OTHER GROCERY BURGLARIES

Recently Discharged From Industrial Farm, Opened One Safe With Cleaver.

Investigating the flickering of matches in the grocery of William Quade, 4040 North Twenty-fifth street, at 2:30 a. m. today policemen found David Montgomery, 17 years old, of 2166 Farrar street, hiding inside the store under a pile of boxes and sacks. In his pockets they found 57 cents and some cigars which he admitted had been taken after he broke in through a rear window with an iron bar.

Taken to the station the boy confessed, policemen say, to having attempted at 1 a. m. to enter the grocery of Edward H. Sprick, 4001 North Twenty-second street, from whence he was frightened by Sprick who lives upstairs.

He confessed also, policemen say, to having robbed the grocery of William Schroeder, 2200 Newhouse avenue, Wednesday night, chopping off a safe combination with a meat cleaver and breaking open the cash register, taking $26.

The boy, policemen say, said he had served 12 months in the Booneville Industrial Farm and had been released from there three months ago. His parents are dead, he said, and he made his home with an uncle. He was held.

FATHER ASKS POLICE TO SEND ROY, 12, TO INDUSTRIAL FARM

Takes Son to Station, Remarking That He "Can't Do Anything With Him."

William Ballard, 1702 North Spring avenue, walked into the Deer Street Police Station last night with his son, Edward, 12 years old, and asked policemen to take charge of the boy. "I can't do anything with him," the father said. "I believe a trip to the Industrial Farm would do him good."

The father added that the boy had been in the school once, but had escaped last November.

"He's a smart kid and you'll have to keep your eyes open to hold him," he added as he departed.

Policemen took charge of the boy.

They said they had been looking for him anyway since Oct. 14 in connection with a fire at the stable of the City Dairies, Vandeventer and Easton avenues, where several boys were caught after a match had been tossed into gasoline let loose from a container in the stables.

$100,000 PAID FOR ONE BOOK

Volume Is Only Known Copy of First Edition of Shakespeare.

By the Associated Press. PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24.—What is said to be a new record in the price of books was established here by the sale of a single volume for $100,000. The purchaser, a New York collector, asked that his name be withheld.

The book is the only known copy of the first collected edition of Shakespeare's works, published in London by Thomas Pavier in 1619 and printed by William Jaggard. It measures 7x5 1/2 inches, is half an inch thick and contains nine plays. At one time it belonged to Edward Gwynn, the Elizabethan collector. The volume formed part of the Marsden J. Perry Shakespearean library, recently purchased by the Rosenbach company here.

1429A Blackstone avenue, charged with murder in the first degree of her husband, Joseph C. Kelly, 59 years old, a mail carrier, on Aug.
14, 1918. The State rested its case yesterday. Kelly was shot while delivering mail to an office at 311
Chestnut street.

Police Sergeant John C. Stephens-meyer, a witness for the defense, testified that when he was detailed near the Kelly home, 3309 Maffitt avenue, he was called on six or seven occasions to quiet family troubles between the two. He said he never saw Kelly strike his wife but had heard Kelly admit having done so and saw marks on Mrs. Kelly's face.

Albert Schlough, an electrical contractor, 3909 College avenue, who lived in the apartment below the Kelly family, testified that he had rung the front door bell several times in an effort to stop family troubles. He said that once Mrs.
Kelly ran from the house without sufficient clothing, following one of these instances. He said he had never seen an assault but had heard
Mrs. Kelly scream, "Don't kill me."
At one time, he said, both her eyes were blackened.

The State yesterday attempted to prove that Kelly was shot without provocation. None of the witnesses who testified yesterday saw Kelly make any move toward Mrs. Kelly.

TRY A LITTLE SALTS IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER ARE TROUBLING YOU

Salts flushes Kidneys without injury; also neutralizes uric acid, ending Bladder irritation.

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scald-ing sensation and is very profuse;
again, there is difficulty in avoiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless,
and is made from the acid of grapes
and lemon juice, combined with lithia,
and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.
Here you have a pleasant, effective and lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.—ADV.

under military control, after he had

PROVISIONS OF THE TRIPLE ALLIANCE TREATIES REVEALED

University of Vienna History Professor Tells German-Austrian-Italian Agreements.

By the Associated Press.
VIENNA, Oct. 24.—One of the hitherto undisclosed provisions of the treaty convention of the Triple Alliance has been made public by Dr. Alfred Pribram, professor of history in the University of Vienna, who was permitted access to the State archives.

Article 2 of the original treaty provided that Germany and Austria-Hungary should come to Italy's aid in the event of an unprovoked attack by France. Italy was to come to Germany's assistance if she were attacked by France, but Austria's participation in Germany's behalf was limited to an attack by two Powers.
Italy was not expected to assist Germany in a war with Russia.

A separate agreement was then entered into whereby Austria's participation in Italy's behalf was limited to a war involving the Balkans or an unprovoked attack by France. Article 4 of the German-Italian convention contained an expression by Germany of her readiness to guarantee Italy's possessions at the cost of France in the event of a successful war. In the renewal of 1911, however, these separate conventions were incorporated in the Triple Alliance treaty as a whole.

The crisis of the Triple Alliance, it is disclosed, came in 1896, when Italy notified her partners that she would not join them in any war in which France and England were aligned on the same side. The renewal of 1902 granted Italy a free hand in Tripoli, and in the treaty in 1912 a protocol was signed recognizing Italy's sovereignty in Tripoli.

Junior C. of C. Begins Work
OF NATIONALIZING MOVEMENT

National Convention in St. Louis in 1920 is Planned—School Tax Increase Endorsed.

Plans were laid for the Nationalization of Junior Chamber movement at a meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at Planters Hotel last night. The St. Louis Junior Chamber of Commerce is to take the initiative. Henry Giessenbier Jr.
was appointed chairman of a committee to make all necessary arrangements for a national convention of Junior Chamber of Commerce delegates, in St. Louis in June, 1920.

A resolution endorsing the proposed increase in the school tax rate was adopted after an address by Dr.
G. M. Phillips on the subject.

Support and assistance in the Third Red Cross Roll Call—was pledged.

J. H. Orr, Vice-President, St.
Louis Union Trust Co., addressed the membership on "Community Trust."

BARON ROMANO ON WAY TO U. S.

New Italian Ambassador Hurrying Departure.

By the Associated Press.
ROME, Oct. 24.—Baron Romano Avozzano, who some time ago was selected to relieve Count Macchi di Cellere as Italian ambassador to the United States, will hasten his departure for America because of the death of Count di Cellere, even though the health of the new ambassador is not of the best at present. He was in conference with Premier Nitti last night on Italo-American relations, the premier outlining the general lines of policy he wished to have followed with a view to the furthering of the friendship between the two nations and their reciprocal interests.

The baron will leave tonight for
the Royal Chateau at San Remo, near Pisa, to be received by the king before proceeding for Genoa, whence he will sail on the first available steamer.

The baron's wife was formerly Miss M. J. Taylor of St. Louis.

POLICE PROTECT GERMAN OPERA

More Than 300 Stand Guard at New York Theater.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—While more than 300 patrolmen, detectives and mounted police stood guard, German opera was sung last night in the Lexington Theater for the third time this week. Although crowds surged through the streets near the theater, there was no serious disorder. Less than 500 persons were seated in the theater when the performance began. Many of these were city detectives.

Justice Giegerich refused yesterday to modify a temporary injunction obtained by the producing company prohibiting the city authorities from interfering with the performances.

GAMING IN SALOON IS CHARGED

Two Customers and Proprietor Arrested—Dice Game Alleged.

James Corey, proprietor of a saloon at 4813 North Union avenue, and two customers were arrested in the saloon at 10 p. m. yesterday when Lieut. Mathews, in charge of a dice game in progress on the bar.
When a search of the saloon revealed two bottles of whiskey behind the bar, Corey was ordered held for investigation by Government authorities.
Ray Oldfather, 32 years old, of 4519 Beacon street, and Ollie J.
Belne, 28 years old, of 2540 Arlington avenue, the customers, were locked up, charged with gaming.
Corey, police say, resisted arrest and had to be forcibly placed in the patrol wagon.

MAN TOLD TO LOCK UP WHISKY

The telephone in the home of Arthur Blumeyer, 3673 De Tonty street, rang yesterday evening and Blumeyer, responding, was told by a man who refused to reveal his identity:

"You better keep your whisky locked up."
"Why?" inquired Blumeyer.
"Well, the gang around Grand and Park avenues are getting the d. t. s.

Blumeyer went to a locker in the basement and discovered that 12 quarts of his private "stock" had been stolen.

 I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Overcrowded Picture Houses.
 To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 It quite frequently happens that one who has but recently taken up a residence in a city may notice the manner in which a city is run, from a viewpoint that is overlooked by an older inhabitant. A visit to several of your moving picture show houses on last Sunday displayed a condition that I believe does not exist in any city in the country of any size closely approaching that of St. Louis. I was simply amazed to find that the police here permit standing room to be sold in the moving picture shows and likewise permit the aisles and back areas of the theater to be packed and jammed with humanity.
 The crusade that hit this country some years ago against congestion in theaters was the direct outcome of the disastrous Iroquois Theater fire in Chicago. If you will remember it was the unanimous opinion of the fire experts that had the aisles and back areas of the Iroquois been free not a soul would have been lost, but it was this tremendous crowd that packed the standing room space, that caused the congestion at the exits, thus throwing those in the rear into a panic with the result that almost a thousand lives were crushed out.
 Directly following this fire almost every large city in the country passed ordinances or laws prohibiting anyone from entering a theater unless he was assigned to a seat and ordering all aisles to be cleared and no one to stand in the rear. Every theater has been provided for in numerous other cities.
 Will St. Louis wait until she suffers with a disaster such as overtook Chicago? St. Louis can boast of some of the most beautiful moving picture houses in the country, and would it be a pity to be forced to brand one of these with the reputation such as is now borne by the Iroquois, that of sacrificing hundreds of lives for the sake of a few paltry dollars that would go into the coffers of the moving picture theater owner?
 At the time of the Iroquois fire, the theaters were new and almost unheard of, but now it is old and if disaster comes to St. Louis along this line, it is my opinion that theater owners should not be made to carry the blame alone; part of it, at least, should be thrown upon the shoulders of the lawmakers, who have the power now to reduce the probability of a serious calamity by remedial legislation.
 A NEW CITIZEN.

Favoritism in Food Sales.
 To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 The letter from the ex-soldier in today's paper meets with a sympathetic response from me, for I, too, stood in line over four hours watching the stream of policemen, firemen, conductors, etc., enter and emerge in a few minutes loaded down—only I finally reached the counter to find nearly everything sold out. For a year and a half my two little children and I lived upon a soldier's pay while these same policemen, firemen, conductors, etc., were drawing their good pay and laying by for a rainy day.
 Are there not good men in this city who can see the injustice of this and put a stop to it?
 The poor people who see this wrong with their own eyes can never forgive our St. Louis Police Department.
 AN EX-SOLDIER'S WIFE.

Time to Make Peace.
 To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 Capital is dealing with labor on the same old principle, that because labor owns nothing of the world's goods labor has absolutely no property rights in any sense. While labor very sensibly, justly and reasonably claims a human right and interest in and benefit from the goods and properties the sweat of its own face and toll of its own hands have produced. This is the crucial point and the dispute, contention and strife have worked right up to it and already hair begins to fly and blood to flow.
 It is time to settle the league of nations wrangle and appoint a few of our wisest men to watch the affairs of Europe and the world, while all Americans with all hypocrisies cut out, turn their attention to American affairs and American democracy.
 J. A. TATE.

Daylight Savings.
 To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 I was very much interested in your article under the caption "Movement to Retain Daylight Saving Plan" which appeared in last Sunday's issue of your paper. Unquestionably workers in all our great cities have been greatly benefited in health through the daylight saving plan which has been in force for the past two years. The extra hour of daylight gained has enabled them to secure recreation and healthful exercise that they were previously denied.
 asmuch as New York and several cities of Ohio have already provided for a continuation of this plan and cities on the Pacific Coast are making preparations to do so, why not St. Louis? If this movement is given publicity and our citizens have an opportunity of expressing themselves, I believe it will be found that they are overwhelmingly in favor of continuing the daylight saving plan.
 A. H. SIMONS.

PEACE OR NO PEACE.

That the issue in the United States is the rejection or acceptance of the peace treaty is emphasized by the reservations proposed by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

These reservations differ from amendments only in name. They are amendments, and to make sure that they shall be regarded as amendments and shall have the effect of amendments, the committee has inserted a clause requiring the formal approval of three of the principal nations in the peace conference. In short, if these reservations are adopted, the treaty will in practical effect be rejected and the amended treaty must be accepted or adopted by the signatories.

While the approval clause refers to only the signatories of the Entente, Germany is also a signatory, and her assent must be obtained to the amended treaty, so that the whole question of peace, so far as we are concerned, is reopened and indefinitely postponed. What could be more disastrous, not only to us but to the whole world? We would open a veritable Pandora's box, out of which immeasurable woes may come.

While some of the reservations are unobjectionable, others are inherently vital. They change the intent of the peace treaty and strip America of obligations under the League of Nations to guarantee justice and peace. If we insist upon special privileges in the League, we cannot deny similar privileges to others, and so, with the door open to destroy the treaty and the covenant, we shall invite chaos in the world.

Assuming that the League of Nations is formed without America, hope for its success will be greatly diminished. It will be more in the nature of an alliance than a League and will invite the forming of other counter alliances and the world will again be in the dread clutch of intrigue, militarism and war.

In the present crisis in domestic concerns, we want peace above all things, and not only peace, but a guarantee of peace and stability. Our menacing domestic problems are serious enough in the best times, but with chaos in the world and revolution and strife rising at many points, they are practically insoluble without peace and stability.

We believe an overwhelming majority of the American people want the peace treaty ratified. Many are willing to have reservations adopted which will not endanger peace or the League of Nations. They should thoroughly understand, therefore, what the adoption of these reservations will mean and what is the intent of the extreme Wilson opponents in the Senate. The issue involves peace or war, democracy or militarism, revolution and chaos or orderly progress and the will of the people in support of peace, order, stability, progress and prosperity, should be made known to Senators with irresistible force.

HIGH PRICED MOVIES.

Would any book publisher, about to put forth a novel, reason to himself in this manner:

Here is a most interesting story. It will not cost any more to print it than any other book, but the tale is so very good that the average reader ought to be charged $5 for it, instead of the regular price.

This question is asked because of the showing in St. Louis of a widely advertised film drama for which a higher admission fee was charged. Looking at the picture from a spectator's seat, one observed that an exceptionally small cast was required for the acting; that there was no unusual expense for costumes; that no elaborate construction was required for stage settings—in short, that it probably cost much less to produce, in a mechanical sense, than scores and scores of films which have been displayed in St. Louis at regular admission prices.

The theater's reason for the increase is logical and fair enough—it had to pay a good deal more for the privilege of displaying the film in question. Hence the comparison between the movie producer and the book publisher.

Moving pictures are the entertainment of the masses. All through the war and down to the present, in the period of soaring prices, it could be truthfully said that there was one thing, at least, which gave full value for the money paid. As the cost of making moving pictures increased the added expense was apportioned among thousands of theaters and millions of patrons, so that the ultimate consumer, so to speak, had to pay but a trifle more for his evening's amusement and education.

Recently, however, there has appeared an effort to make prices all that patrons will pay. That effort is a mistake. There is plenty of evidence that the financial returns from successful films, shown at ordinary prices, are prodigious. In every respect, save for the pride which comes with the knowledge that the public is paying more to see one producer's output than anyone else gets, the advantage is all with moderate admission fees.

BERNSTORFF'S WEARY CONFESSION.

The testimony of Von Bernstorff before the committee investigating the responsibility of German officials for the war reveals nothing new. That the German Ambassador at Washington had a wretched, impossible role to fill is known of all. He had to be an unconscionable hypocrite. He had to create the impression that the Government he represented was an honest, trustworthy Government. He had to violate the elemental decency by betraying the hospitality of a friendly Government whose friendship Germany had availed itself of, under the laws of civilized war. He had to plot the meanest villainies and the darkest crimes against this Government whose guest he was.

All that has been so thoroughly established that any statement of it now is but dreary reiteration. So, the note of mental and moral fatigue in Von Bernstorff's helpless confession that something always occurred—sometimes a U-boat outrage, again a Cavell execution—to void his efforts for procuring America's intervention in behalf of peace. To act the barbarian and yet appear a civilized Power was Germany's desire, and it was the task of her diplomats in neutral countries to carry out the deception. They failed, of course.

But the Bernstorff confession is interesting when contrasted with the brutal candor of Von Tirpitz.

A ferocious old Hun, without a corpuscle of compassion in his system, Von Tirpitz would have told the truth. Give up Belgium? To such proposal Germany should have answered unequivocally No. Would he have sought to defend or justify the submarines, or to bring that campaign within the purview of international law? International law had become obsolete. It was a new day, brought in by a new Germany. He would have lent no courteous ear to the protest of the neutrals, to their simpering, senile sentimentalities. He would have waged submarine warfare ruthlessly from the very first, in haughty defiance of the world's opinion. What would a triumphant Germany care for the opinion of a vanquished world?

Incomprehensible as is old Von Tirpitz, there is a stark honesty in his rapacious philosophy that can almost command a kind of dazed respect. It is less censurable, in any event, than the contemptible deceit of the Imperial German Government which Bernstorff wearily complains of.

CARDINAL MERCIER.

No more impressive figure has come out of the world war than that of Cardinal Mercier, who arrived in St. Louis this morning to be the city's guest today and tomorrow.

What civilization owes to the Belgian prelate it is impossible to estimate. In the darkest hours of his country's distress his faith flamed the highest. He spoke with the eloquence and authority of the prophets of old. The world hung on his words. In his righteous scorn the brutal violence of Germany was exposed, not only in its hideousness but in its futility. It was doomed by the immutable laws of justice to fail.

What an inspiration to his countrymen this churchman's precept and example must have been! In all of the warring nations there were periods of depression when the stoutest hearts knew the clutch of despair at the seeming hopelessness of the unendurable struggle. But Belgium appears to be the exception that knew no such wavering moments and the explanation may be found, perhaps, in the invincibility of this churchman's fearlessness and faith.

Priest of the Roman Church, Cardinal Mercier in truth has become a minister of mankind, revered by all who prize honor and believe in truth. St. Louis accounts his presence here a high distinction.

UNFORTUNATE MAGAZINE PROPRIETORS.

Several score of national periodicals having headquarters in New York are now undergoing perhaps the most disagreeable experience in all magazine history in this country, in being compelled to suspend publication on account of complicated difficulties with members of the printing crafts.

Sympathy must be felt with the proprietors of these periodicals in having this exasperating and even distressing ordeal forced on them at this particular time of the year, with the holiday season near at hand and many affairs of unusual moment pending in the world of events. They have, however, only to make wise decisions looking to the future to make this extraordinary crisis recognizable as a blessing in disguise.

Far too many publications of national scope are now made dependent on the local conditions of a single publication field—conditions having to do with labor, mechanical equipment, transport facilities and other things. This single city, located at the extreme edge of the continent, has for publications of genuinely national scope no advantages compensating for this position of dependence and handicap. The cumulative, congested demand on the possibilities of the narrow field really sacrifices very substantial business and other advantages easily obtained in other inviting fields—perhaps through a scattering among a number of such fields.

St. Louis has been shown by tests extending through long spaces of time to be admirably located as a headquarters for periodicals of general circulation. Some of its advantages are summed up in its immunity from labor disturbances, its nearness to the country's center of population, its facilities for estimating the desires and sentiments of the people, its unusual representative character as an all-American city. To cater from here for popular favor is easier than from many other cities.

While their accustomed activities are suspended those New York publishers cannot do better than to investigate these advantages. That they now fail to appreciate their very practical value must be the sole reason why a number of them have not availed themselves of the broader opportunities in the very central point of the continental circumference. Leave the rim and come to the hub.

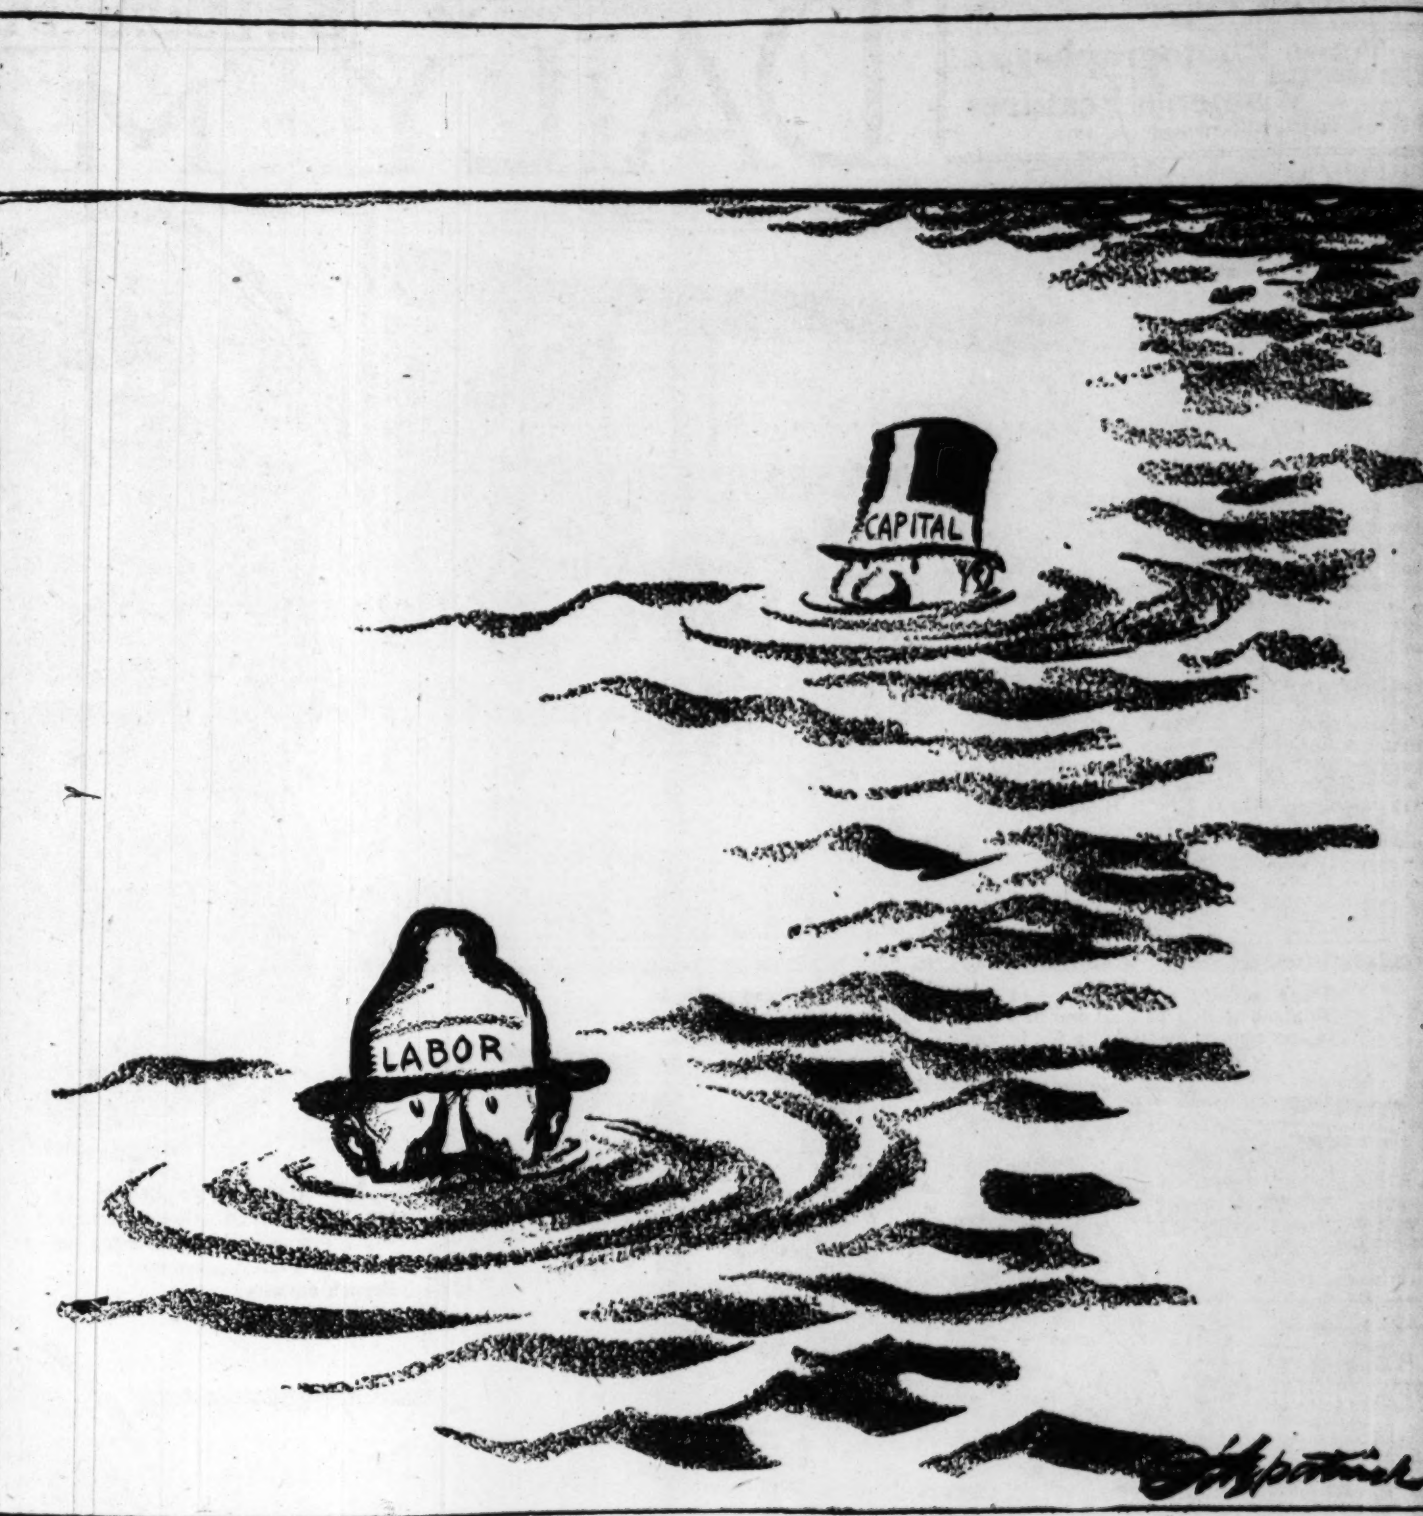

AN AGREEABLE SURPRISE FOR MISSOURI.

Those political influences which ought always to be minimized in selections for the bench seem to have played a smaller part in the St. Louis appointment to the Supreme Court than in any Missouri judicial appointment of record in a long time. With several candidacies having powerful political backing urged for the place, one or two at least having slight claims for consideration aside from their political support, Gov. Gardner stopped aside to prepare a very agreeable surprise for the State. By naming Dean Richard L. Goode of the law department of Washington University he reinforced the personnel of the court with abilities of a high order and set a precedent in selection which, it is hoped, may gain in force.
 "A man not only of deep learning in the law, but of practical grasp in its problems—Justice Goode having once had experience on the appellate bench in this State—is honored in the selection. Missouri can stand more of such surprises.

PRESIDENT DE VALERA'S VISIT.

Whatever differences of opinion may be held with regard to the methods or plans of the Irishmen who are struggling for the independence of Ireland, all lovers of liberty have profound sympathy for the Irish aspiration for self-government and national entity. No other people has done more to keep the flame of liberty burning than the Irish. Through centuries of oppression and restriction they have maintained their struggle. They never despaired.

As the embodiment of the Irish determination to obtain self-government in the largest sense, President de Valera has unique distinction. We may welcome him as a leader of men who refuse to compromise when liberty is at stake. A cause of this kind finds generous response in the hearts of all Americans.

MR. ANTWERP'S OPINION.

"THE memoirs of Ludendorff and Von Tirpitz have been interesting, but they have been nothing to what those of Senator Lodge and Senator Reed will be," Mr. Antwerp said.
 "Maybe Senator Lodge will tell us something of what has been going on behind the Republican lines, exactly as Ludendorff has been telling us something of what went on behind the German lines. After one loses one's cool and tells everything as a rule, and the Senator who went down with him as Ludendorff has had upon the Kaiser and those other supermen by whom he was controlled in the conduct of the army."
 "I think of Senator Reed in the light of the Von Tirpitz memoirs. The Senator is a kind of lone wolf, exactly as Von Tirpitz was. I read the Von Tirpitz memoirs carefully, and I was unable to ally the old gentleman with anyone except himself. In some respects his story was the more interesting of the two. That is, he had an axe out for everybody. Those political lobes, so-called, always have the better story. They have no one but themselves to shield. The more people one is covering for in memoirs, the poorer the story."
 "These stirring times, and great books will come out of them. It is likely that most of the Republican Senators will write books. They are of so many shades of opinion as to the peace treaty that almost none of them can speak for another, and everybody will want to set himself exactly right with the people. 'My Story of the Peace Treaty Fight' ought to be a mighty popular title for a good many people around the Capitol when the battle is over."
 "The President's memoirs can come out later. Having nothing to explain, he will not be compelled to rush into print as fast as the other fellows will."
 "We must remember that Foch has not published his memoirs yet."

VARENNE'S.

THOU shadow of a fairer day,
 How pale and wan from war's red, withering blast;
 Thy ghastly mantle as of Pluto cast;
 To thee art due the honors of the fray.
 Glory to those heroes of another land,
 Who fought to free thee from the wrathful Hun.
 They faltered not and the day was won;
 In frenzied haste fled the Vandal band.
 Thy walls looming white 'gainst the dark Argonne.
 Reoigned with the mighty dead;
 As the Thirty-fifth came charging in,
 They and the Twenty-eighth were one.

Comrades in arms they charged the foe;
 On, on swept the mad, impetuous power;
 Feared not deadly gases or shrapnel shower,
 Though many went down with faces aglow.
 Valiant soldiers from across the sea;
 They offered all to thee, Varennes;
 Thee and thine own fair France,
 And now—thou, thy beautiful soul—art free.
 NEWTON B. KELLEY.

THE MEASURE OF MAN.

IN the hollow of my hand is the ocean. Along my forearm floweth the river. Behold, the sun is within mine eyes and the moon within mine ears, for mine eyes are confounded, yet there is music which is soft and marketh my soul with soothing.
 Behold, I forgot my power! With the ocean within my palm and the river along my forearm and the universe spread forth before me, and the sun within mine eyes and the moon within mine ears and lightning upon my tongue and thunder within my heart, I am complete.
 I am combined elements of all things, an inheritor of all creation, an expression of God's power culminated in perfection, elicited from His side.
 Behold me, a composite of all atoms. The core of life is within me. Behold, I am spirit and matter. Destroy me, still I am spirit and matter. The elements of matter remain with their kind. The elements of spirit flow forth to rejoin their kind. There is the parting of the way, for spirit is but measured and death in matter. It hath no part with matter, neither doth it leave a stain of its substance upon the clay.
 Clay is but cold, and droppeth a whitener. The cup is moulded and ground and dispersed in dust before the winds, while the spirit encircles the universe and forgets the crumbling atoms, save to smile upon newer cups at their measuring.

PATIENCE WORTH.
 Sir: I think I am entitled to a S. H. license on the following which is out of your own paper:
 STENOGRAPHER—One of the largest real estate girls in city, located on South Side, has opening for young business woman with average intelligence and two years or more experience; real estate preferred; must live on South Side; salary $75; answer immediately; give age and experience. Box O-188, Post-Dispatch.
 So kindly send me a number, please, and also let me know what territory I may hunt in. I was going to answer the ad, but then it looked so terribly cannibalistic that I paused. Someway it suggested Red Ridinghood and the Wolf so strongly that I shuddered. I could just hear that fiendish wolf in Grandma's cap saying, "All the better to eat you, my dear."
 But my chum insists that a real estate girl must be a sort of a real estate "fan," altogether harmless and rather pleasant. What is your guess?
 Sir: There is an advertisement upon a drug store at Sarah street and the Hodiament tracks that reads as follows:

Eight plates, fifteen minutes, fifteen cents:
 Use any part Balance keeps Indefinitely
 Compressed Quick Maid Fresh Soup
 Seven Varieties
 Chicken, celery, vegetable, pea
 Oatmeal, Beans and Beef bouillon with Rice
 One look for sight of the quick maid, but then it is too quick for the eye. NO. 55554444333
 She: Did you read about the King of Belgium asking to be shown a refrigerating plant?
 He: Yes. I think they sent for your father.

MY GIFT.

I CAUGHT the song of the stars
 In a soft grey veil of mist.
 I found it round with a moonbeam thread
 Of silver and amethyst.
 I sent it to you, and called it Love,
 All silver and purple and grey.
 You kept the veil and the moonbeam thread
 But the star song slipped away.

The MIRROR OF PUBLIC OPINION

THE RECOVERY OF BELGIUM.

From the Christian Science Monitor.
 WHEN the armistice was signed, last November, it was very generally recognized that the work of reconstruction in Belgium would be a tremendous one. For nearly four and a half years the whole country, save for a little strip of territory in the neighborhood of Ypres, had been in enemy occupation. Trade and industry, during that time, had been practically at a standstill; the disposition of the country's population had suffered violent upheavals; hundreds of factories had been destroyed or denuded of their machinery; and other material damage had been inflicted which would take large expenditures to make good.

A year ago, little attempt had been made to compute the liability, but since then Belgium has drawn up a detailed bill against Germany, showing a claim of no less than $5,000,000,000 francs. This was completed in the early summer, whilst within the last few weeks, the Belgian Minister of War, speaking in Brussels on the financial position of the country, showed how, all question of damages apart, the normal expenditure of the country had increased. The budget, which before the war reached a sum of about $300,000,000 francs, will this year probably reach a figure three times that amount. The rise in the salaries of state employees and the cost of living indemnity alone will add some 240,000,000 francs to the budget, whilst at least 100,000,000 francs a year must be paid, for some time, in war pensions. Finally, there is the interest on the national debt, which has, of course, increased enormously. A certain portion of all this will be ultimately recoverable from Germany, but, meanwhile, Belgium must meet the situation with what help she may be able to get from the allied nations.

The position is undeniably a difficult one, but in Belgium as elsewhere, the solution lies in work, in production; and it is just here that Belgium, in spite of many superficial indications to the contrary, seems to be finding her feet more rapidly than most countries.

SENATORIAL JAPAN BAITING.

From the Springfield (Mass.) Republican.
 THE attack on Japan in the Senate last week, particularly by Senator Norris, took a vicious turn when the Nebraska Senator assailed the Japanese as pagans hostile to the advance of Christianity in the Orient. Rev. Dr. F. E. Clark, founder and head of the Christian Endeavor Society, comes to Japan's defense, at this point, in the columns of the Boston Herald. Norris' talk, he writes, "is the merest balderdash. Japan has been remarkably friendly to Christianity for the last 50 years. It has welcomed the missionaries of all denominations. The Government has allowed the establishment of a great Christian university and scores of Christian colleges and schools of high grade." As for Japanese cruelty to the Koreans, Dr. Clark observes in a way to sting a Senator from Nebraska:

Bad as was the cruelty reported from Korea, there was no scene quite so disolical as one of which the papers told us in the chief city of Senator Norris' own state. The atrocities in Korea were no more designed to crush out Christianity than the atrocities in Omaha. Japanese baiting, in recent months, has been becoming too unrestrained and reckless by far in this country.

Tom Sawyer on Superstition YOU'LL find that superstition haven't changed much
 the days of Tom Sawyer.
 You remember how one day Dick shared with a piece of yarn round his toe?
 "Cramp," he explained, when saw his playmate gazing at his side. "I had such a cramp I I couldn't hardly walk. It's one now. Always tie a piece around it when I get cramp."
 Cramp resolves to do likewise.
 He goes to bed, but so late he is, open-mouthed, to a grand bout a bout of purely imaginary encampment "down near the creek." Dick is enjoying the in his mind, but is suddenly interrupted by Chick, who says:
 "Let me see your fingers!"
 Dick exhibits one hand, keeping the other out of sight.
 "Let me see the other hand," says Chick. The other hand is shown with one of his leg-gins in the meantime the leg is hidden.
 "Aw, let me see 'em both at once," says Dick. He has his sure enough. Dick had his leg-gins on, but he was a little in a hurry, because you can't tell a lie when he has his leg-gins crossed. Still, crossing your legs is kind of risky. It's kind of risky, though, like crossing your legs with one of his leg-gins in the superstition favoring horses or asking Daddy

 if the cows are, to see if the spread of Bolshevism and the little "lady bug" the-Chick had certain superstitions of his teeth. When one of his teeth came out he looked found what looked like a rat throw it in. If he hadn't would grow in its place.

 Tom Sawyer had no such super-

Many bachelors, so many frocks, many styles, that one and two-piece suits, and a comely face!

THE smaller a man's heart, the greater number of trivial, little love-affairs he seems to be able to juggle at one time.

The honeymoon is never quite over, and the bridegroom's slogan is "The Queen can do no wrong" up to "Well, can't you do anything right?"

Did you ever see a small boy, who didn't prefer to sneak out of the window when he might just as well have walked boldly out of the door—or a man who didn't have a stolen kiss to one that was nearly bestowed?

The styles in hats, frocks, manners and politics may change, but the good old-fashioned, "plain-tailored" husband, who shares his chin, his own job, pays his bills and loves his own wife, is still the most popular 1919 model.

They used to laugh at you for getting stout, then they pined you for being thin—and soon, no doubt, they'll love you.

Love is the railroad crossing, where the wagon which a girl has climbed to a star, is apt to be shunted to bits.

Tom Sawyer on Superstitions. I WOULD find that superstitions haven't changed much since the days of Tom Sawyer. Do remember how one day Dick appeared with a piece of yarn tied around his neck?

"Cramp," he explained, when he was playing saucer at the school house. "Had such a cramp in my foot I couldn't hardly walk. It's most now. Always tie a piece of yarn around it when I get a toe cramp."

Chick resolves to do likewise if ever gets one, but soon is listening open-mouthed to a grand yarn about a band of purely imaginary Indians who were "down near the river." Dick is enjoying the impression he is making, but is suddenly interrupted by Chick, who says: "Let me see your fingers?"

Dick exhibits one hand, keeping the other out of sight. "Let me see the other hand," demands Chick. The other hand is shown and in the meantime the first is hidden.

"Aw, let me see 'em both at once," says enough Dick had his fingers spread. But it wasn't a lie about the Indians, because you can't say a lie unless you believe it.

Chick thought was kind of a thing to do, like crossing your fingers. And Chick never took any notice in the superstition favored by the Indians, who are always stamping the horses or asking Daddy Longlegs where the cows are, to see if he is going to one of his legs, or the little "lady bug" the saw about her house being on fire.

Chick had certain superstitions of his teeth. When one of his teeth came out he looked until he found what looked like a rat hole and threw it in. If he hadn't done the chances are no tooth would have grown in its place.

Tom Sawyer had no such superstitions. He carefully preserved his old teeth for use as legal tender, for a tooth plus a marble was worth a rat to swing by the tail.

SPORTS APPAREL BY WAY OF ENGLAND AND FRANCE

Belted Jacket of Leather, Plaited Skirts of Plaid Cheviot, Paddock Topcoats, Tweed Suits Are Smartly Tailored—Dressy Skating Accessories.

A topcoat of sports proclivities is made of tan and brick barred fleece wool, comfortably equipped with a great collar, capacious pockets and liberal cuffs.

Travel inducement is offered in a Cheruit coat of Highland plaid, the pattern dimmed from hip to hem with black yarn embroideries; the collar is caracul faced.

Topping a plaited skirt of checked, worsted is a mannish jacket of tan leather, properly pocketed, belted and cuffed; the leather hat has a thong tassel of the same.

It is in the field of sports apparel that the English and French have made a worthy movement in this country to emulate the Englishman. In this respect, the French are very smart, however, well-tailored models in better favor than the Londoner's apparel worn by the woman who is an onlooker rather than a participant in the various fall and winter outdoor activities.

For some time there has been a movement on the part of the fashion arbiters to popularize plaids, but little success resulted in the every-day apparel of the average woman, who as a rule is not a participant in the various fall and winter outdoor activities. Now the plaids have come into their own, and nothing could be more attractive than the gayly marked skirts that complete the dull jackets of velvet, leather, camel's hair or cheviot. A few of the skirts are in tartan stripes, and there are modish little checks if one does not care for the Scotch colorings.

The separate coats have a style all their own, and one would never confuse them with the regulation coat of the separate genus, fur trimmed and absolutely sophisticated. The sports variety has a distinctive individuality. There is one, straight from London, made of natural color camel's hair wool with great squares marked off in brick red. The skirt is full and drawn tightly about the waist by a belt of the material which laps across the front and has a double button fastening. The patch pockets are enormous and fasten with buttons of the greater security of their contents. The collar is of the cloth, rolling high at the back and fastened in low, depending pieces on the chest. The coat immediately suggests the paddock, but it would be quite appropriate for steamer wear, for the motor, or in lieu of a great-coat to wear over the suit.

While the smartest sports things have come out of England, the French designers have a few models to their credit, too. Cheruit has made an alluring coat that any woman might be proud to wear in town as well as during her exodus therefrom. The material is dark blue and green plaid overlaid with stripes of bright yellow and red. From the hip line to the ankle the gray stripes are covered with black yarn in chain stitching, so that there is a dimmed or veiled effect to the lower part of the garment. The embroidery is repeated about the flat cuffs, while the stocklike collar permits a revelation of the yellow and red threads, balancing the brightness by a facing of black caracul. Being a Cheruit model, there is a string belt, a sort of signature of the maker.

Homespun and cheviot suits are indispensable to the real sportswoman. They are the acme of smart simplicity, the softly tailored lines and the comfortably widened skirt bespeaking English origin. With such suits are worn the unstarched shirts of madras, linen or washable silk, the collar high or with a slight roll and finished with Windsor or four-in-hand. Link-fastened cuffs finish the sleeves.

Pure are not inconspicuous accessories, although there are women, doubtless, who will not care to adopt them. This season the little cravat of short-hair fur has a real place in the sports wear category, and the muff will be carried by the younger element, especially for the long hike.

Plaited and Gored Skirts

Plaited skirts are fancies for sports wear, and the deep plaits are in great evidence, as the narrow knife variety. Other models follow the English idea of gores with flaring propensity toward the hem. The women who are keen for outdoor athletics in England, seldom vary the style of their sports clothes season in or season out. They are shy of novelties and never permit them to creep into any detail of the sports attire, and there is a worthy movement in this country to emulate the Englishman. The Sandman Story for Tonight

By MRS. F. A. WALKER.

How Topsy Won the Prize.

TIGER and Tim were two kittens, and while their mother, Mrs. Puss, tried to bring them up as well-mannered kittens should be brought up, those two naughty kits quarreled all the time.

Topsy Kitten, their sister, was a nice quiet little puss, and Mrs. Puss was very proud of this one well-behaved child, you may be sure, and that was one reason her brothers never missed a chance to plague their sister because she was always held up to them as a model.

But the one thing they never forgave was that Topsy took place in the barn one day, though it was not at all Topsy's fault but their own.

Mrs. Puss had offered a prize to the one who should catch the first mouse. It was to be a red ribbon for their neck and each one, of course, wanted it.

"Oh, we will get the prize," said Tim to Tiger. "Topsy is so nice she would not run after a mouse. Let us go in the barn and watch this morning. Then I can wear the ribbon this afternoon when we sit out in front in the sun."

"I am going to win the prize," said Tiger. "You can't have it." "Oh, I know I'll get the mouse first," said Tim. "I can always beat you running."

"Neither of you will get it if you stand there quarreling," said Mrs. Puss, giving each of her sons a tap on the ears which sent both scudding into the barn.

Tim sat down by the biggest hole, and Tiger said that was not fair, so they pushed each other about until their mother, hearing the racket, came in and settled the dispute by saying they both should sit by the hole, and the one who caught the mouse would have the prize.

It was a long time before the mouse came out of his hole, because they had made so much noise, but at last he did come, and such a scramble you never did see. Over boxes and palls and rakes and hoes they all flew, and then Tim caught it, and Tiger took it away from him, saying that he saw it first, and that the mouse belonged to him.

Tim and Tiger tumbled and clawed at each other in a terrible way, quarreling all the time, each saying the mouse was his, when Topsy, who was passing the barn, heard the noise and went into see what was going on.

Just as she entered the door the mouse was running for its hole, and Tiger took it away from him, saying it and carried it off to her mother.

That afternoon when Mrs. Puss sat out in the sun with her three children Topsy wore the red ribbon, while her brothers looked at her with envy and anger.

"She took my mouse," said Tim. "It was my mouse. I saw it before you," said Tiger.

"If I hear another word about that mouse boots of you will go to bed without your supper," said Mrs. Puss. "If you two were not always quarreling one of you would have won the prize, but your sister caught the mouse."

The Curious Quest

THE boy looked around him, still bewildered.

"There must be something," he began.

"It would afford me some satisfaction," Bliss said quietly, "to be assured that the matter in which I intervened was not—"

"I'll tell you all about it," the boy interrupted. "I'll tell you all about it, with pleasure. My sister and I live in Grosvenor Square. She is Lady Margaret Braydon. The matter was giving a fancy-dress ball and we were both bored to death. I'd wanted to go to a Covent Garden ball and told Meg so, and she both-ered me into taking one of the motors and going there just for an hour. She wanted to see what it was like. It was a mad thing to do, of course. While we were there, three or four men followed Meg about, and directly I noticed it, we made up our minds to leave. Just then there was an awful hubbub. Some thief had stolen a bracelet from a woman named Mrs. Mott. I caught her arm and accused her of having taken it. The bracelet was on the floor, close to where Meg was standing, and it seemed to me we were in for trouble. Two of the men laid hold of Meg. They were going to keep her till a policeman arrived. I knocked one down and tripped the other, and Meg bolted. We both got clear, but she was a different way, and I lost her. Thanks to you, she got home, or there'd have been a devil of a row, for one of those fellows half-recognized her, I'm sure, and they say he's a bit of a blackmailer, a regular wrong 'un. I hunted around for Meg for over an hour, but I had to be jolly careful myself, for the man I knocked down caught his head upon the railing and had to be taken to the hospital. Then I telephoned home to one of the servants I could trust, and found that Meg had been home for some time and gone to bed; so I followed. That's the story. I saw her when I got home, and she told me what you'd done for her. We'll both be thankful to you all our lives, Mr. Bliss."

"That's all right," Bliss replied. "You won't mind if I say good-bye now, will you? I've a lot of work to do, and my mistress is a little impatient."

"It's all silly rot," Lord Geoffrey declared. "You've got to come along and let us help you out of this. I mouse and brought it to me first and the prize is hers."

As they were to have a saucer of cream for supper, Tim and Tiger thought it best not to talk any more, but Tim whispered to his brother and said:

"Who wants the old red ribbon, anyway? I don't. Only girl kittens wear those things."

"I don't want it, either," said Tiger, rolling over on the grass. "Boy kittens can't fight with ribbons on their necks."

can get you a job down on our Whit-shire estate, or—"

Bliss shook his head gently and pushed him towards the door.

"I'll see you again some day," he promised. "I'll know where to come if I need a leg up. Good-bye!"

"And a nice long time the young man was, too, leaving your coat," Mrs. Mott grumbled, as Bliss stepped back into the sitting room. "There's everything cold here, but I've warmed up the last bit of bacon."

"Thank you, I've had plenty," Bliss assured her.

"You'll just sit where you are," Mrs. Mott insisted, "and you'll eat that bit of bacon"—thrusting it upon his plate—"and drink this cup of coffee. Then you and I together'll see about bringing the stuff in the shop, and I'll show you 'ow to do the sortin'. I don't see," she went on, dropping an extra knob of sugar into his cup, "why we shouldn't get one of them tocs as are always hanging round to do the rough work outside, and you might 'elp me more in the shop. It's not a bad little business, you know. Mr. Bliss, properly looked after," she continued, dropping her voice a little, "and it don't mean late hours neither. We can generally be finished in time for a bit of supper at 7 o'clock, and one's earned a bit, too, to spend. I'm all for a bit of enjoyment after the day's work's done," she confided.

"And to tell you the truth, I feel a lot more like it now I've got rid of that one's earned a bit, too, to spend. I'm all for a bit of enjoyment after the day's work's done," she confided.

"And to tell you the truth, I feel a lot more like it now I've got rid of that one's earned a bit, too, to spend. I'm all for a bit of enjoyment after the day's work's done," she confided.

A SECOND BIRTH.

The principles that have stirred free and new born Russia will within the next five years spread to all the countries of the earth, which, when new born, will be as fortunate as is the country to which Lenin has brought the light.—A BOLSHEVIK ORATOR.

In free and new born Russia, if you have a loaf of bread A new born brother comes along and raps you on the head, And when you wake to consciousness, along about the dawn The new born brother and the bread are noticeably gone. A lot of pleasant things like that the new born Russians do. But we shan't like them over here till we are new born, too.

In free and new born Russia if a house you chance to own The neighbors are so neighborly you're never left alone. They sleep by dozens in your beds, and when they leave next day They take the knives and forks and spoons and furniture away. No wonder that the Russians view the U. S. A. with scorn We do not do that over here, for we are not new born!

In the free and new born Russia, when you step from your abode You're grabbed and taken out of town to work upon the road. And if you try to get away, or even glance about A husky moujik pats you with a rough corrective knout. We might be doing things like that around the U. S. A., But fortunately for us all, we weren't born yesterday.

Remorse.

"Yes."

"How was the food there?"
"Don't ask me to answer a question like that, but I'll say this much. The Gourmet Raves.

"Some day," remarked the gourmet "we shall be able to dine perfectly. Many cities have their food specialties and unless eaten on the spot they are never so good. There's where the swift airplane comes in. I shall begin my meal in Boston with steamed clams. Ten minutes later I shall be in New York enjoying a plate of delicious turtle soup. This is followed by a planked shad in Philadelphia and chicken and waffles "Maryland style" in Baltimore. "Next, on to Richmond for a course of Virginia ham and salad. To Florida for dessert, and then, the wind being favorable, I cross to Cuba for a perfect cigar and the meal is finished."—Boston Transcript.
